Jobless Payment Declines

Unemployment insurance payments to jobless Missourians continued a seasonal decline from June to July, according to a report released today by Herman Julien, Director of the Missouri Division of Employment Security.

The benefit payments for July of 1967 totaled $2,034,644 while the payments in June of 1967 totaled $2,339,592. The July benefit payments were for 59,159 weeks of unemployment as compared to 69,983 weeks of unemployment in the previous month.

Total claims for unemployment insurance payments, both initial and continued claims, showed only a minor increase from the June figure of 111,027 to 114,495 in July.

During the month of July, determinations were made on 6,499 disputed claims. Of this number, 2,923 were denied benefits for one of more weeks due to ineligibility of disqualification under provision of the Missouri State Statutes.

An additional $90,888 was paid to former Missouri workers now living in other states, a decrease of $6,272 from the previous month.

In addition to the regular state program, Missouri's ex-servicemen and former federal civilian workers were paid unemployment benefits during July in the amounts of $58,238 and $49,194, respectively.

Here is an office-by-office tabulation of unemployment insurance benefit payments during July 1967 for this area. Including the amount of $90,887.81 paid to persons now residing in other states who earned wage credits in Missouri:

Clinton $20,525.80.
Lexington $38,440.38.
Marshall $23,219.05.
Sedalia $34,870.19.

Soldiers Killed In Ambush

SEOUL (AP) — Three American soldiers were killed and about 15 others were wounded today in a North Korean ambush on Korea's western front, the U.S. 8th Army reported. At least one South Korean soldier also was wounded.

The victims of the Communist attack were riding in a truck in the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division area about 35 miles north of Seoul. The Communists hit the truck with grenades and opened fire from concealed positions with automatic weapons, the Army said.

Soldiers on the truck immediately returned fire and reinforcements were rushed to the scene to engage the attackers.

The casualties were members of the U.S. 7th Infantry Division who were working in the 2nd Division area, the Army reported.

The attack took place north of the Imjin River along the western portion of the Korean demilitarized zone, an Army spokesman said.

No other details were available.

Another American was seriously wounded and his scout dog killed in another North Korean attack earlier today in the 2nd Division sector, the spokesman said. He said an American patrol about 500 yards south of the demilitarized zone was fired on by four or five North Koreans who were about 200 yards north of them.

The distance between the two attacks was not announced. The 2nd Division guards 18½ miles of the 151-mile armistice line in the vicinity of the Panmunjom armistice village.

The attacks were the first major border incidents in the American sector since three Americans were killed July 16 when their position just below the demilitarized zone was overrun by a group of about 10 North Koreans. Fifteen Americans have been killed in five major border clashes reported in the American sector since last November.

Mayor Notified

Seek to Discontinue Two MoPac Trains

Mayor Ralph Walker was one of 17 mayors who received notice from the Missouri Public Service Commission this week that Missouri-Pacific Railroad had filed application seeking approval to discontinue two trains serving Sedalia and 16 other cities.

The other points served by the two trains are Kansas City, St. Louis, Jefferson City, Kirkwood, Washington, Herman, Pleasant Hill, California, Tipton, Warrensburg, Lee's Summit, Independence, Gasconade, Chamois, Knob Noster and Holden.

The two trains are listed as Nos. 17 and 14, travelling between St. Louis and Kansas City. Train No. 17 leaves St. Louis daily at 8:50 a.m. and arrives at Kansas City at 2:20 p.m. Train No. 14 leaves Kansas City each day at 4 p.m. and arrives in St. Louis at 10 p.m.

In its application, Missouri-Pacific Railroad Co., said "passenger traffic on these trains and on its systems generally has declined in recent years."

The company added that in "the interest of economic operation, it is necessary to effect savings wherever possible; and that savings in excess of $150,000 per year can be effected by the discontinuance" of the two trains.

TODAY'S WEATHER

Fair to partly cloudy and continued rather cool tonight and Friday. Lows tonight near 60. Highs Friday in 80s.

The temperature Thursday was 57 at 7 a.m. and 73 at noon. Low Wednesday night was 56.

The temperature one year ago today was high 78; low 64; two years ago, high 87; low 58; three years ago, high 96; low 73.

In the notice received by Mayor Walker, the Missouri Public Service Commission asked Walker to notify that agency if there is any objection "on the part of the citizens of your city to the granting of this application."

If the application is granted, Sedalia would still be served by four passenger trains, two eastbound and two west.

The two east-bound trains are: No. 18, stopping here at 2:20 a.m., and No. 16, stopping here at 1:25 p.m. West-bound are No. 19, stopping in Sedalia at 3:45 a.m., and No. 15, stopping at 6 p.m.

If the other two trains are stopped, it would mean the loss of one of three trains headed out of Sedalia both east and west.

Mayor Ralph Walker was not available for comment at press time on the matter of whether objection to stopping the trains would be voiced.

Fairground Spraying Is Planned

The Missouri State Fairgrounds will get a chemical bath, from the air, Aug. 16 or 17 and Mayor Ralph Walker urged residents of the area not to be alarmed by low-flying aircraft during the spraying operation.

Wednesday Mayor Walker gave the Rusty Aerial Spraying Co., of King City, Mo., authorization to fly over Sedalia while spraying the fairgrounds.

His letter to the firm said: "The chairman of the Sedalia Airport Board requests that you maintain radio contact with the Sedalia Memorial Airport during this operation so that other aircraft in the area can be warned of your presence."

The insecticide spray will combat various undesirable bugs prior to the opening of the fair.

Woman Fatally Shot, Husband Is Detained

Mother of Three Children Is Victim

Mrs. Shirley Clark, 29, mother of three small children, was fatally shot about 1 o'clock Thursday morning in the 1500 block on South Ohio Avenue. Her estranged husband, William Homer Clark, 47, is in custody.

The shooting took place when Mrs. Clark apparently tried to jump out of the car she was driving. Mrs. Clark but a few minutes before had completed her shift at the Rival Manufacturing Co., 16th and Lamine.

It was reported the couple had been separated for the past five days, but not divorced.

Fighters Down 2 Red Jets

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy fighter-bombers shot down two MIG21 jets over North Vietnam today in the first dogfight in two weeks, the U.S. Command announced.

The command also announced that 40 Vietnamese civilians were killed and 36 were wounded when U.S. Army helicopters returned enemy ground fire in the Mekong delta nine days ago. It said the civilians were in a "large group" which was firing on the helicopters.

The Soviet-designed MIG21s, the most advanced plane in North Vietnam's air force, were brought down by air-to-air missiles fired by F4C Phantoms from the carrier Constellation.

The latest confirmed kills were the first since July 21 when Navy pilots from the carrier Bon Homme Richard downed three of the earlier model MIG17s.

The score now stands at 82 confirmed MIG kills for U.S. pilots and 20 American planes downed by the Communist interceptors in aerial combat over the North.

Field reports said the civilians killed and wounded by the American helicopter gun crew. Aug. 2 were in a crowd of peasants returning from the rice fields and that a Viet Cong force mingled with them as it withdrew after overrunning a government outpost.

The U.S. Command said a "U.S. Army light helicopter fire team" — believed to number two or three helicopters — was supporting the militia outpost 70 miles south of Saigon and "received permission to return enemy fire being received from a large group."

In the ground war today, significant fighting subsided again after the fierce battle Wednesday between troops of the 1st Air Cavalry Division and North Vietnamese forces in the Song Re Valley of the central lowlands, 330 miles north of Saigon.

The general lull in major fighting in recent weeks was reflected in casualty figures released today by the U.S. Command. American casualties last week—146 killed in action, 1,064 wounded and 14 missing or captured—were the third lowest in six months although a slight increase over those of the week before.

Trailer Offices Set Here

Construction began Thursday on the new building to house the headquarters of the Nationwide Trailer Rental System which is being moved here from Wichita, Kan.

The building, which will be completed in about 60 days, will be 5,000 square feet and will more than double the space now available. It is located west of the Parkhurst Co., and a building has been moved out of the area for the construction of the new building which will house the personnel of the national field program who will direct and supervise dealers of the organization. There are about 2500 stores in communities over the country.

Moving of the headquarters is the result of the acquisition of the Nationwide Trailer Rental System by William R. Parkhurst, H. Mike O'Connor and a group of other people.

The plans are to supply, enlarge and service the field portion of the company and number of men and their families, both personnel at the new office and in the field will be headquartered in Sedalia.

Sam E. Morris

Trooper Replaces Southwick

Trooper Sam E. Morris, 24, of the State Highway Patrol, has assumed duties in the Sedalia area. He was transferred from Lee's Summit, Troop A Headquarters, taking the place of Trooper William Southwick who resigned last June.

Trooper Morris was appointed to the Patrol in Jan. 1, 1966, and after completing his training was assigned to Troop A and stationed at Lee's Summit.

He graduated from the Boonville high school, Boonville, and attended Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg. Prior to being appointed to the Highway Patrol he was employed by the Hubert Fiberboard Co., Boonville.

Trooper Morris and his wife, Charleyne, have two sons, Samuel, five, and Charles, four. They moved to Sedalia Aug. 4, and are residing at 1002 East 11th Street. They are members of the Christian Church, Masonic Lodge and Eastern Star. Both Trooper Morris and Mrs. Morris are natives of Boonville.

Missouri To Receive $1,447,651

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kansas will receive $913,083 and Missouri $1,447,651 from the Land and Water Conservation Fund, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall announced Wednesday.

Udall said the apportionment of $61,750,000 to the states and territories from the fund represents 95 per cent of the $65 million appropriated by Congress from the fund for allocation during the fiscal year which began July 1. He said the rest will be set aside to meet unforeseen needs.

The allocations are on a matching basis. The money comes from various federal outdoor recreation fees, proceeds from the sale of federal surplus property and the federal motorboat fuels tax.

Hearing On VOR Planned

Congressman Scheduled To Be Here

A public hearing on a Federal Aviation Agency effort to close the Blackwater VOR station will be held at 1 p.m. Friday at Holiday Inn, with Congressman William Randall scheduled to appear.

The decommissioning of the VOR station, which provides a radio beacon used by air craft to land at specific points in this area, has been debated for almost two years.

The Blackwater station provides instrument-equipped planes with data for landings during overcast weather conditions.

The FAA reportedly wants to close the station as an economic measure. Local officials, including Mayor Ralph Walker, contend, however, that the VOR facility is vital to Sedalia air traffic.

There is apparently a regulation which states that an airport serving three instrument-rated pilots qualifies for a VOR station. This is one of the key points which will probably be debated Friday.

Pilots using the Sedalia Memorial Airport are expected to attend the hearing and express their views concerning the closing of the station.

William Hall, Sedalia Industrial Development director, has been in close contact with various elected officials in an effort to prevent decommissioning of the station.

He has said that without the station, larger planes using instruments for landings will not be able to land here if skies are overcast, or during storms.

Among planes which would be prevented from touching down here in such cases would be those of Mo-Ark Airlines, the Menefee Construction Co. plane, a plane used by Town & Country Shoes, Inc., and aircraft which the new Olin-Mathieson Co. plant is expected to use here.

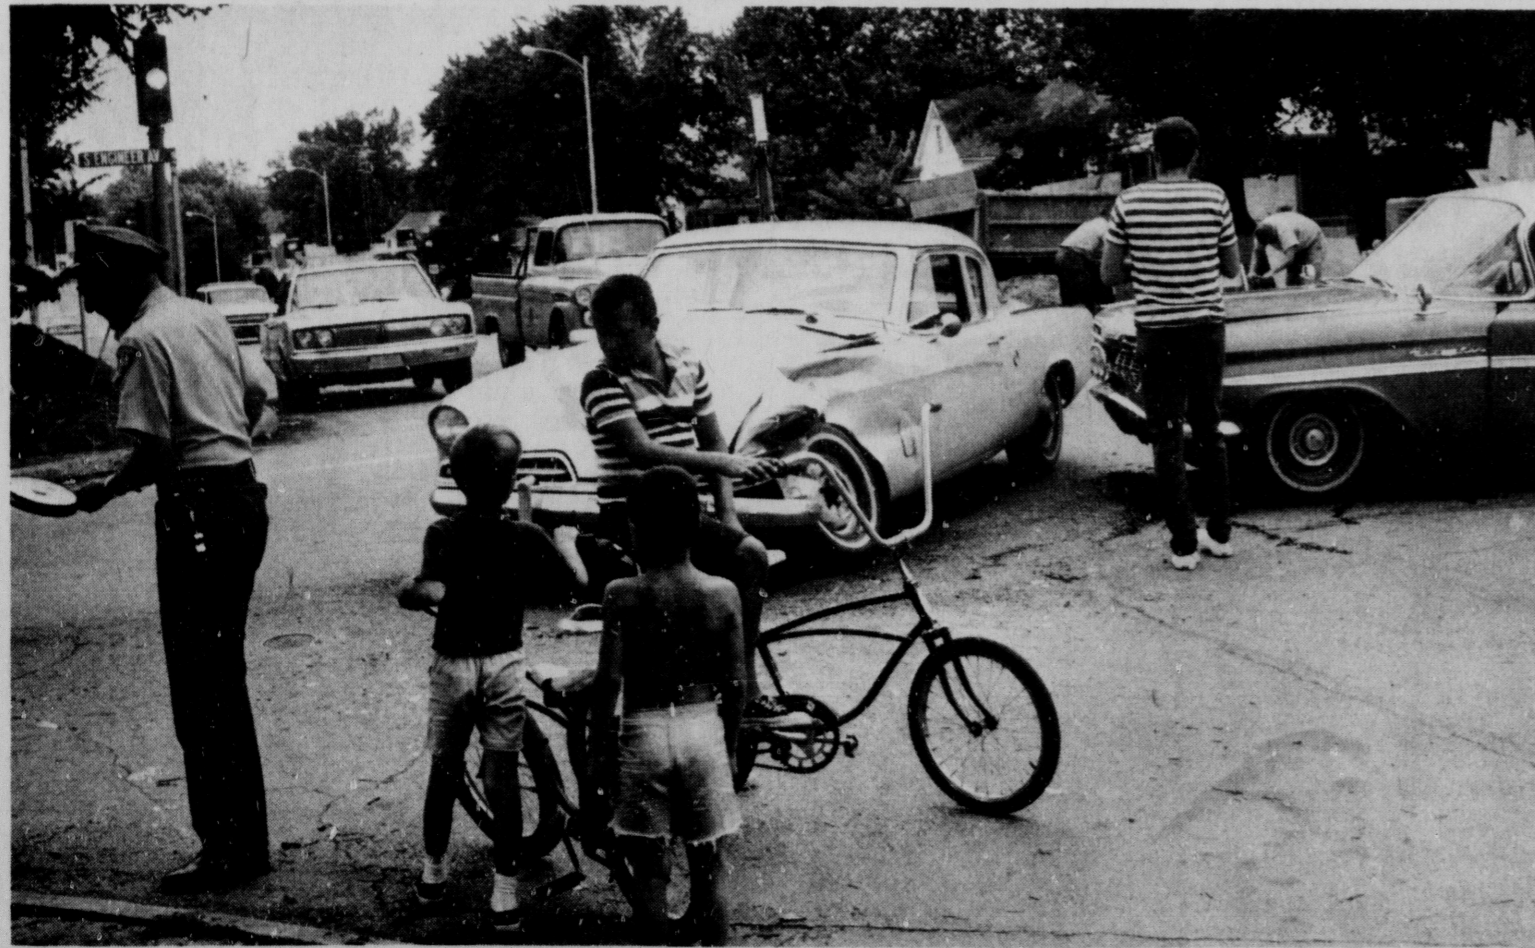

Some alternate proposals have been discussed, such as the part-time VOR station at Whiteman AFB, but none have been termed adequate for local needs.

Dissolve Death Plots

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnamese police have arrested 23 Viet Cong terrorists and broken up elaborate plans to spread death and destruction in Saigon before the Sept. 3 national election, police sources said today.

Word of the roundup came out as seven of the 10 civilian presidential candidates refused to hit the hustings unless their military opponents assured them transportation and security.

One plot was said to have been aimed at the Joint U.S. Public Affairs Office in the heart of the South Vietnamese capital, and the adjacent Rex Hotel, a major American billet. The two buildings daily attract thousands of American military men and civilians.

Ironie

Two cars collided at Broadway and Engineer at 1:55 p.m. Wednesday at a spot where work crews are busy improving the intersection for safety's sake. Involved were a 1954 Studebaker driven by Bryan T. Tippie, 904 Arlington, and a

Hit a Bridge

The driver of this 1966 Chevrolet, David Woods, 75, Independence, received a crushed chest and head lacerations when the car struck a bridge abutment two miles east of Ottumwa on Highway 50 about 1:20 p.m. Wednesday. Woods was taken to Bothwell Hospital in a Ewing ambulance. Woods is in critical condition. The Highway Patrol said Woods apparently went to sleep while driving. Damage to the car was listed at $2,400 by the Patrol. (Democrat-Capital photo.)

O'Brien Optimistic About '68

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic party will have to work hard next year to retain voters it traditionally has taken for granted: Negroes, big-city whites and liberal, young students, one of the party's top political strategists said today.

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien said Democrats must spend a lot of time explaining the administration's stand on the Vietnam war to a public he believes doesn't fully understand it.

In an interview, O'Brien indicated strongly that Democratic strategy next year will be to blame Republicans in Congress for blocking administration measures designed to solve the ills of riot-torn big cities.

He said also that state and local party organizations, which have shown signs of disintegration, had better rebuild.

O'Brien conceded that the war, this summer's riots and President Johnson's request for a 10 per cent surcharge on personal and corporate income taxes are "areas of potential political difficulty" for the Democrats.

"Anyone who knows me says I'm a pessimist," O'Brien said, leaning back in his swivel chair, arms outstretched, cigarette smoke swirling upward into the vastness of his dark-paneled office. "Yet, in the middle of a hot summer with difficulties domestically and at the water's edge, I am optimistic about 1968," he said.

Defections from the party? Disunity? Not a bit. "I am completely confident that the leaders of the Democratic party will be marching shoulder to shoulder next year."

Turning to the war, O'Brien said "the realities of our involvement must be repeatedly spelled out. Of course, in an involvement that is all too little understood by many Americans, you will always find people that resent and resist the effort."

He emphasized the administration has no intention of backing away from Vietnam or of decreasing its pressure for civil rights legislation at home. And if the administration's stands create political problems, "so be it," he said.

"We will not be deterred or inhibited in pursuing our course by political considerations in terms of what it might mean to us in 1968," O'Brien said.

At the same time, he placed blame for much of the nation's domestic problems—principally those of the big cities—on Republican opposition to administration measures in the present Congress.

Dispute Arises In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharp Senate dispute has shaped up over whether to allow Export-Import Bank financing for sale of U.S. machine tools for a Soviet auto plant.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, sponsoring an amendment to block the proposed transaction, declared on the eve of today's opening of debate on the East-West trade measure:

"I will not support any such deal while our young men are being slaughtered in the jungles of Vietnam with Soviet weapons."

President Johnson announced last year approval of the sale and Democratic leaders are attempting to turn back a Dirksen amendment.

The amendment is being offered to a bill extending the lending authority of the bank for five years and boosting it from $9 billion to $13.5 billion.

The administration won an important victory Wednesday with defeat of a proposed amendment by Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., that would have banned further bank financing of arms sales to poorer countries. It was rejected 48 to 40.

Ellender insisted such sales only encouraged the underdeveloped nations to devote to military equipment funds which they should be using to build a better life for their citizens.

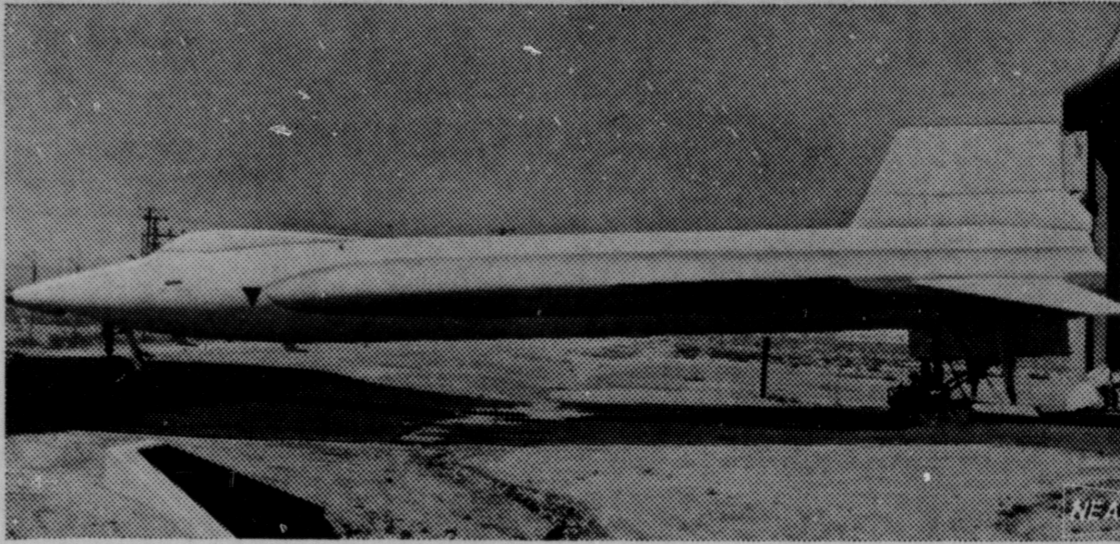

Administration backers argue that a complete ban on such financing would force some friendly nations, possibly including Israel, to turn elsewhere for needed arms.

Some of these countries would be thrown into the hands of the Communist bloc, they contended.

The bill as it stands would not permit the financing of sales to the poorer countries, however, without the specific approval of the President.

A similar provision in the measure, inspired by potential transactions such as the one involving the Soviet auto plant, would allow financing of sales of U.S. equipment for transshipment to a Communist nation only if the President approved.

The Soviet plant is to be built by Italy's Fiat Motor Co., which has said it would like to use $50 million of American tools if it can obtain Export-Import Bank financing.

ROCKET PLANE, the experimental X-15, has a new skin. Technicians at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Flight Research Center at Edwards, Calif., have changed its color from the familiar black, to white. The ablative coating was put on to protect the metal skin from overheating as the plane heads for new record speeds of about 4,500 m.p.h. The shield even covers the pilot's windshield, but the "eyelid" will be opened prior to the landing approach.

"Instant Parks" Installed

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Mayor William F. Laman has applied today's trend of instant goods and materials to parks and playgrounds.

Laman ordered city crews into an all-Negro section of this city of 65,000 recently after residents complained about weed-filled lots harboring mosquitoes. Within 48 hours three new parks about the size of residential lots were added to the city's parks system and two more are in the making. Laman said the instant parks were not designed to head off racial unrest. He said, however, they prove that city officials are aware of problems and will act to correct them.

"I got curious as to why so many calls were coming in from people in the area complaining about the lots and mosquitoes," Laman said.

"I drove through the area and saw families sitting outside trying to keep cool. They were burning fires in smudge pots and fanning and slapping at mosquitoes."

Laman said that when city crews began cutting weeds "we found the lots had been used as a personal dumping ground."

"Our work crews found all sorts of junk—automobile parts, old refrigerators and broken beer, whisky and wine bottles."

He said that after getting the debris and weeds moved, it occurred to him to install playground equipment and create parks.

The mayor said he did not confer with lot owners—some of them have not been located—but has received no criticism. He has promised to return the property to the owners when they ask for it.

When the first parks were completed, Laman told residents of the area by loudspeaker that city trucks would be by to pick up trash.

"It gave the people a chance to clean up and do something for themselves," Laman said. "We hauled off trash in that area for three days and some of them even began to paint their houses."

JOHN IN QUINCY AND QUINCY IN ADAMS
QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — Quincy, whose history dates back to 1825 when city fathers named it after the second president of the United States, John Quincy Adams, absorbed the identity completely.

The founders named the town Quincy, the county Adams and its public gathering place "John's Square."

National Death Rate Dropping

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The nation's death rate has unaccountably dropped for the first quarter of this year, and national health authorities say the decline is reflected in every section of the country.

The Communicable Disease Center says there was no epidemic of influenza during the past winter, and the nation's death rate ordinarily would be lower because of this. But a study by the center shows that deaths dipped considerably below the expected rate.

A spokesman for the center said, "We have no way of speculating as to the cause."

Expected To Make Statement

PARIS (AP) — Faced with discontent rising over his actions at home and abroad, President Charles de Gaulle was expected to make a statement of major importance in a radio and television speech tonight.

The French government faces a number of critical problems, many of De Gaulle's own making.

The outspoken president labeled Israel the aggressor in the Middle East war, a position which upset the generally pro-Israeli French. But in doing so he improved relations with the Arab world.

De Gaulle openly encouraged French-Canadian separatists during his trip to Canada last month. His parroting of the separatist battle cry "Long live free Quebec" left English-speaking Canada enraged and most Frenchmen aghast. The comment was called unacceptable by Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

Since then Gaullist aides have been trying, without much success, to explain why their president felt it necessary to meddle in France's domestic affairs.

De Gaulle also has run into widespread opposition to his profit-sharing plan for certain French workers and to his reform of the national social security system.

Sinkings by U-Boats

In World War I, German U-boats sank more than 11 million tons of merchant shipping. In World War II, they sank 14 million tons of allied merchant shipping and nearly 200 naval vessels.

Teenagers Put Broom To Harlem

NEW YORK (AP)—Two blocks from where teen-agers recently chanted "Puerto Rican border, don't cross, flatfoot," fake roses are blooming in windowboxes and kids are putting the broom to Spanish Harlem.

Across town, behind the tenements that crowd toward the Hudson River, more teen-agers are tying bandanas around their mouths and digging into court-yards filled with what they call "air mail express" garbage—the kind thrown from Harlem apartment windows.

Both projects are meant to touch many bases: cleaning up slums, getting kids work, and bringing pride to apathetic neighborhoods. Far from everyone is sure they will succeed.

Adrian Rodriguez, a small man in a bow tie and green beret, came out of his butcher shop called La Novillera Carnecería, and watched a boy putting a windowbox on a second floor ledge. It was almost around the corner that policemen fired volleys of shots and a man was killed in Puerto Rican rioting two weeks ago.

"The flowers are a very nice idea," he said, "but flowers are for the outside of the building and it is the inside of the building which is bad. The people are scared to say anything. If they speak, the landlord raises the rent."

Skepticism even affected an 8-year-old watching the Harlem clean-up. "People are too lazy to bring the garbage down from the top floor. They just throw it out the window," said Andre Pleasant.

But the kids worked hard. They swept streets with big Sanitation Department brooms, shoveled out alleys that looked like narrow-gauge garbage dumps, and piled bed stands, beer cans and soggy cartons onto trucks.

A Sanitation Department representative explained that when the youths went into the court-yards they were penetrating territory technically out of his men's jurisdiction.

The landlords are responsible for the areas, but because the average fine for failure to remove the refuse is $2 and some 40 per cent of the summonses issued are ignored, he said, the yards tend to stay filthy.

Says His Agency Was Slow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Federal Housing Administration says his agency has been too slow in launching a program to provide decent private housing for families of low to moderate income.

Responding to charges this week by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., FHA Commissioner Philip N. Brownstein said: "We do have a complex procedure." But he added in an interview: "We are working diligently, assiduously and, I think, successfully to reduce our processing time" on project applications.

Brooke charged in a Senate speech Monday that since the FHA's low-income housing program was authorized in 1961, only 40,000 housing units have been completed—"a pitifully inadequate number."

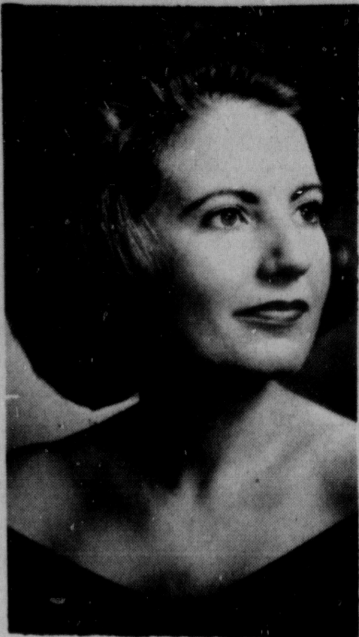

FHA is considering plans and has earmarked funds for proposed projects that would total 143,000 units and cost $1.9 billion of the $2.1 billion available for the program to date.

Under the program the government provides loans at three per cent interest—well below the market rate—to private, non-profit groups such as churches, labor unions and foundations. The housing is designed for families whose incomes are too high for them to qualify for public housing—but too low for them to afford adequate private housing.

Units built under the plan must rent for 30 per cent less than they would normally.

While Brooke referred to the program as low-income housing, Brownstein pointed out it "doesn't touch the really poor people. This is for those who can pay rent close to the normal."

FHA's parent agency, the Department of Housing and Urban Development, has begun some other programs designed to supplement traditional public housing projects. Best-known of these is another administered by FHA—rent supplements, which the House in effect has killed and which administration officials are trying to have the Senate resurrect.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union is testing a new parachute system in an effort to eliminate the malfunction blamed for the death April 24 of cosmonaut Vladimir M. Komarov.

Russian scientists launched two unmanned sputniks—Cosmos 170 on July 31 and Cosmos 171 on Tuesday—to try to iron out the problem, informed sources said.

A tangled parachute failed to slow down Komarov's new type of spaceship, Soyuz 1, on its return from orbit. The Russians have announced no manned space flights since Komarov's death.

Networks Silent Until Now

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Networks compete year-round for sponsors, for credit. While the three-cornered war sometimes seems dormant except for occasional publicity handouts, fighting tends to flare up around the opening of the new season.

Until Wednesday, things had been suspiciously quiet on the warring fronts of ABC, CBS and NBC. ABC and CBS long ago had announced plans to have their season premieres during the seven days starting Sept. 5, the day after Labor Day. NBC seemed content with a late start—Sunday, Sept. 10, enough in itself to put the competition on the alert.

Although the industry believes the television audience spends a new season's first three weeks sampling the new wares of all networks and normally pays little attention to Nielsen ratings until sometime in October, it also believes there are certain advantages in capturing the public's attention at the season's opening.

NBC fractured the unusual preseason calm by announcing Wednesday that during the first five days of the new season—ABC and CBS premiere period—they would "sneak preview" eight pilot films for programs contemplated for past or future seasons.

The "sneak previews" coincide, in most cases, with premiere shows of new ABC series.

When ABC's new "Garrison's Guerrillas" starts its action on Tuesday, Sept. 5, NBC will be sending out a comedy, "L'il Abner," a comic strip-based pilot film that failed to make the current schedule, and "Sheriff Who," a Western spoof dropped last season when two similar ventures died on network vines.

On Friday night, Sept. 8, when ABC will introduce a whole evening of new programs, NBC will come along with a full line-up of one-shot broadcasts including "The Hardy Boys," "The Ghostbreakers"—both passed over for this season— "Police Story" and "Three for Danger."

Two other old pilots, "Week-end," and "Campo 44", a candidate for a network spot two seasons back, will be shown Saturday night, Sept. 9, running into Jackie Gleason's season premiere on CBS.

The big new Sunday night news show of the educational stations and some of the more important special programs of the networks are being withheld until the end of October—when Daylight Saving Time ends and more people are likely to be watching television at night.

If Victor M. Sukhodrev had been raised in America, he might have been the ideal candidate for modeling shaving cream commercials on television.

If William D. Krimer had been raised in the Soviet Union, he might have turned out to be a scholarly lecturer in economics.

But Sukhodrev was raised in Russia, Krimer in the West. Each proved to be the ideal candidate for his present job; interpreting for leaders whose head-to-head talks shape the destiny of the world.

Interpreting at such a high level is a ticklish, delicate job for which only the most expert can qualify. The United States and the Soviet Union each has an elite group of stellar performers in the field.

Paradoxically, the handsome features of the Russian, Sukhodrev, are far better known to American television viewers than the faces of any American experts. Sukhodrev was with Nikita S. Khrushchev when the former premier visited the United States, and he was chief interpreter for Premier Alexei N. Kosygin during the Soviet leader's June summit meeting with President Johnson at Glassboro, N.J.

The 34-year-old Russian probably caused many a flutter in a feminine heart. He is fair-skinned, has wavy black hair, liquid dark eyes, and though he has begun to develop a weight problem, maintains a strict diet so that he will look his best on or off camera—and he is often on camera.

Sukhodrev thoroughly enjoys the exposure he gets on television and in newspapers abroad. On the job, his command of English is so flawless that he virtually never makes mistakes, despite pressures in interpreting off-the-cuff words of world leaders. In Britain, he slips naturally into a British accent. In America, the American accent comes with equal ease.

Krimer, one of the two U.S. interpreters at Glassboro, is equally expert in both languages. Tall, bespectacled and serious-looking, Krimer not only translates what his own principal says, but he keeps close watch on what his chief's opposite number is saying, so that he can check on any omissions.

The jobs done by Krimer and Sukhodrev are typical of the tasks confronting the elite group of top linguists in Washington and Moscow. Each capital has big staffs of linguists, all at least bilingual, some fluent in many languages at the same time.

In Washington, an interpreter is graded according to his "active" languages, the ones from which he translates into English most fluently. Krimer, a native of Russia, speaks his mother tongue with ease. He was educated in Germany, and German is a second "active" language. His English, too, is perfect. He attended the London School of Economics and received his B.S. degree at Columbia University in New York. He served with the U.S. Army during World War II.

Krimer's colleague in the interpretation chore at Glassboro was Alexander Akalovsky, born in Belgrade of Russian parents. Akalovsky now is a first secretary at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

Coincidentally, one of Moscow's top interpreters of English also turned to diplomacy. He is Oleg Troyanovsky, who served Khrushchev as an interpreter and now is the Soviet ambassador to Japan.

There are similarities and differences in the way the Soviet and American interpreters work.

Sukhodrev concentrates on translating the idea rather than each word. He scribbles notes, virtually illegible for anybody else, in his notebook. He jots down key words, either in Russian or English, and on reading back, he fills in the blanks with nearly total recall. He does not use shorthand, but as an admiring diplomat said, "Victor gets across more of what has been said than anyone else."

Sukhodrev does not get caught in mistakes. He has worked not only for Khrushchev and Kosygin, but for other high Soviet officials, from his former base in the Foreign Ministry's translator pool, which includes seven interpreters for English alone.

He has moved up to full diplomatic status in the Foreign Ministry, holding the rank of counselor. He also is reported to have some responsibility for analyzing articles in the English-language press for Soviet leaders.

Sukhodrev is married to a beautiful Soviet actress, Inna Kmit. He is socially active in Moscow's young party circles and attends a constant round of diplomatic and other parties where—watching his weight—he diplomatically declines fattening goodies. He strikes diplomats as easy going, amiable and attractive.

Sukhodrev's flawless English is explained by the fact that he grew up in England where his mother was assigned to the Soviet Trade Mission, and majored in English at Moscow's Foreign Language Institute. He is also proficient in French.

Krimer, at Glassboro, made a point of jotting down every word Premier Kosygin said to President Johnson, thus automatically controlling the translation of his opposite number.

It almost never happens that corrections must be made. The interpreters know the immense importance of their jobs and stick closely to what their principals say. It happened only once in Krimer's recollection—he would not say when or where—that he noted what he believed was an important omission by the other side's interpreter. After the conference he alerted his superiors to the omission and found it was an important one.

Krimer takes down each word because he must prepare a verbatim transcript later on. He uses no shorthand, but has a system of abbreviations all his own.

To Draw Up Action Program

NEW YORK (AP)—Eight Republican governors meet behind closed doors today to draw up a "state action program" aimed at curbing racial violence and rebuilding the nation's slums.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, citing an urgent need to "preserve law and order" in the cities, called the meeting of the policy committee of the Republican Governor's Conference.

A spokesman for Rockefeller said the program "is expected to include specific steps that can be taken by states in the fields of employment, job training, improving the physical environment of slums, crime control and expanding social and recreational services."

Staff representatives of the eight governors met here Tuesday "to go over the action program," the spokesman said. The governor's final draft is to be sent to the nation's 42 other governors for consideration.

Rockefeller, chairman of the policy committee, will be joined at the conference by Govs. George Romney of Michigan, John Love of Colorado, Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, John A. Volpe of Massachusetts and Nils A. Boe of South Dakota.

Rockefeller's office said he called for the GOP session after his attempts to convene a special meeting of the National Governors Conference failed.

Governors who said they were invited to the meeting but would be unable to attend included James A. Rhodes of Ohio, Claude R. Kirk Jr. of Florida, Ronald Reagan of California, Daniel J. Evans of Washington and Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin.

waved the gun around. Shirley was lying in the street and Homer turned and got in the car and drove off fast."

No sooner had the shooting occurred than several persons residing in the neighborhood began calling the police, reporting a fight and others having heard shots. Police were dispatched to the scene and called for Ewing's ambulance which took her to the Bothwell hospital.

Dr. R. A. Enoch, the family doctor, was notified and rendered medical attention. She was shot just above the small of the back and to the right of the spine. She died at 2:20 a.m.

Dr. C. G. Stauffacher, Pettis County Coroner, was notified. Dr. Stauffacher stated a post mortem would be conducted and an inquest held.

A coroner's jury was selected this morning and viewed the body at the McLaughlin Chapel. An inquest was tentatively scheduled for this afternoon to be held at the Pettis County Court House.

About 20 minutes after the police were notified of the shooting, a call was received from awoman at the Bothwell Hotel, who is reported to have said that Clark had asked her to call and tell them he had shot his wife.

Sgt. Al Blankenship and Officers Duane Harkum and James Tuttle answered the call and Officers William Lewis and Lloyd Simons arrived just behind them. Clark was picked up in the Cocktail Lounge and taken to police headquarters.

Prosecuting Attorney Henry Keeler, Chief Deputy Sheriff Jack Coutts and Sgt. Blankenship questioned Clark at the police station.

Clark is reported to have said he went to the County jail and was unable to arouse anyone, left his car parked there and walked to the Bothwell Hotel where he asked that the police be called.

Mrs. Shirley Ann Clark, 29, 508 West 22nd, died at 2:20 a.m. Thursday at Bothwell Hospital.

Born Feb. 21, 1938 at Sedalia, she was the daughter of the late Harley Wolfe and Gladys Keele Wolfe, now Mrs. Raymond Crafton, and spent all of her life in Sedalia. She was employed at the Rival Manufacturing Co., and was a member of the East Broadway Christian Church.

Surviving are her husband, William Clark; two sons, Michael Allen and Jack Lee and one daughter, Patty Gayle, her mother, Mrs. Gladys Crafton, and stepfather, Raymond Crafton, 1220 East Seventh; two brothers, George Vernon Wolfe,

Seeking Votes For Increases

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson is seeking Democratic votes for his proposed tax increase with the face-to-face political selling techniques he mastered long before he became chief executive.

All Democrat members of the House have been or will be invited to the White House, in batches of about 50, for a session with Johnson and his principal fiscal advisers.

A sampling of members who have attended the sessions produced a majority and a minority opinion on the President's salesmanship.

Most thought he is being effective.

A few said they had the impression Johnson doesn't really want the tax, but doesn't want to be in the position of not having fully backed his recommendation before leaving the issue to Congress.

No one would hazard a guess whether enough Democrats have been convinced to guarantee passage for the proposals. No one would be quoted by name on what went on at the closed sessions.

All agreed the sessions allow plenty of time for backtalk and questions from the congressional audience and that questions and suggestions are not brushed off. In some cases follow-up sessions are arranged for individual congressmen with presidential aides.

Informants said economy-minded congressmen want to know why spending can't be cut enough to avoid or minimize the tax raise. Liberals ask about tax reform and closing loopholes to produce more revenue.

One question asked Wednesday was about a statement by Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., that the administration already is planning a second tax increase request after the 1968 election. This was vigorously denied, one member present said.

In reply to the economy questions, members who have attended sessions said, Johnson totes up a list of spending hold-backs and postponements he says have been and will be made.

To those who ask about loop-hole-closing, he says a tax reform bill would take months of hearings and discussions and that the new revenue is needed more quickly—but that any time the Ways and Means Committee is ready to go into tax reform, the administration will cooperate fully.

Amendment Rejected By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Wednesday rejected by a vote of 48-40 an amendment to block export-import bank financing of arms sales to underdeveloped countries.

Kansas Republican Pearson and Oklahoma Democrats Harris and Monroey voted with the majority to reject the amendment.

Kansas Republican Carlson, Missouri Democrats Long and Symington and Arkansas Democrat McClellan voted for the amendment.

305 North Prospect and Donnie Eugene Wolfe, Kansas City, two sisters, Mrs. Virginia May Howard, 405 West 22nd and Mrs. Joyce Louise Hester, Kansas City and several nieces and nephews.

The body is at McLaughlin Chapel. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

EARTHQUAKES IN INDIA

ROORKEE, India (AP)—There is hardly a region in India where earthquakes are not a problem, says the Indian School of Research and Training, established here in 1960 to study the problem of quakes.

A school report says India is one of the worst earthquake-ridden countries in the world, but that it is hopeful of devising improved buildings and dams which can withstand the shocks.

Scouter In Talk To Lions

Garland Groom, Boy Scout executive, spoke to the Sedalia Lions Club Wednesday on the new Scout Camp on the Lake of the Ozarks south of Versailles, and local services of the Scout organization.

Groom reviewed the encampments held there this year. He told the group of improvements being made at the site, the more recent being a chapel which has been contributed by William R. Parkhurst, which will be known as the "Parkhurst Chapel." He also told the group of the Health Lodge, or hospital, which is being constructed through contributions from Jefferson City, and being built by members of the Sedalia Carpenters Local. A group of men spent four days at the camp and have the floor, the side walls and roof up. Several more hope to roof the building this weekend and do other work.

"We are hopeful," Groom said, "to secure the services of doctors to spend a week at a time at the camp and have the services of a nurse. We have had to take our boys who need as much as a band-aid to the clinic at Versailles. This will be a wonderful improvement."

"Mr. Parkhurst, after visiting the site, said it most certainly needed a chapel and he would build one. Construction has started and is well on its way," Groom said.

He told of the World Jamboree held in Idaho, the first to be held in this country, and of the various countries who are represented by Scouts. From Sedalia is Richard Parkhurst and several boys.

Groom then informed the Lions the Scout-O-Rama will be held in the Agriculture building at the Missouri State Fair grounds on Oct. 28, and big plans are being made to make this one of the most outstanding Scout-O-Ramas held in Central Missouri.

Scouting is servicing more than 900 boys in the Central Missouri area with 15 scout units located in Sedalia having a membership of about 350, and six Explorer units, Groom informed the Lions.

Guests at the meeting were Richard Atkinson, Ft. Worth, Tex., of his grandfather, J. W. Atkinson.

Cliff Barr was introduced as a new member of the club.

President Addison "Ad" Taylor, presided over the meeting.

Suggests A Probe Of Dulski

WASHINGTON (AP)—A seshman congressman has suggested a House ethics committee probe the personal use by Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski of $11,000 raised at a testimonial dinner.

"Certainly this is a proper matter to be considered by the new committee set up for standards of conduct," said Rep. William L. Scott, R-Va. He said Wednesday he thought Dulski, for whom "I have nothing but the highest regard," would welcome such an investigation.

Scott was the only Post Office Committee member to suggest such a probe.

Dulski a New York Democrat and chairman of the House Post Office Committee since last January, said he would "stand before a tribunal of any sort" to defend his use of the money raised at a September 1965 dinner.

The Wall Street Journal reported many of the contributors to the Dulski testimonial were leaders of postal unions, lobbyists and big-volume mailers, all directly affected by legislation drafted by the committee.

The Post Office Committee currently is considering a controversial postal rate hike bill. A subcommittee already has approved a cutback in the size of the administration-backed increase for third-class mail, so-called bulk or junk mail.

Dulski, 51, a fifth-term congressman, told newsmen: "I've done nothing wrong."

He acknowledged banking the money raised at the dinner, but said: "The invitations and publicity surrounding the dinner made it abundantly clear that it was intended solely as a personal testimonial to Mrs. Dulski and myself."

The Senate earlier this year censured Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., on grounds he made personal use of funds raised at testimonial affairs billed as campaign fund-raising events.

Firemen Doing Job Anyway

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Their arrival announced by screaming sirens, their silhouettes black against orange flames, firemen in cities hit by violence in the streets have found themselves clear targets for bottles, stones and bullets. Some have died.

Fire department officials responding in an Associated Press survey of cities hit by rioting this summer say the danger hasn't lowered the firemen's morale.

The firemen themselves have mixed emotions—they're scared, but they have a job to do.

"It stinks," said Capt. John Hoffman, a 12-year veteran of the fire department in Newark, N.J., where one fireman was shot to death during racial violence. But, he adds, "the men do their job—no matter what."

The disorders and the danger have brought changes. In Newark, all alarms now are answered by two pumpers, a hook and ladder truck and a battalion chief.

"No one is going in anywhere alone now," says Caulfield.

A fireman was among the 43 who perished in the Detroit rioting. Police said he apparently was the victim of a sniper's bullet.

"When the riot first starts, the police are busy just handling the riot," said Detroit Fire Chief Charles J. Quinlan. "After the National Guard was called up, we had two National Guardsmen assigned to every piece of equipment. That gave our men some confidence."

Fire Chief James Mohr of Milwaukee, Wis., said "protection from snipers" was the principal concern of his men. Police and National Guardsmen rode fire trucks in the troubled area during the rioting there.

In an effort to minimize the danger, firemen responding to calls in New York's Spanish Harlem during the violence there were ordered not to use their sirens. Some engine companies erected chicken wire nets on their vehicles to ward off missiles.

"There have definitely been no resignations and no unusual numbers of transfers," said a spokesman for the New York City fire Department. Quinlan said the Detroit Fire Department has had no problems so far, but adds: "Now, I don't know."

He said the only trouble with recruiting has come from the higher salaries offered by private industry. The starting salary for Detroit firemen is $7,424, with a $8,335 top after four years.

Elsewhere, starting salaries range from under $6,000 to over $8,000. Top pay ranges up to $10,000 a year.

Taken To Bethesda Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Retired Justice Tom C. Clark of the U.S. Supreme Court was flown back to Washington early today from Bangkok, Thailand, and was taken by ambulance to Bethesda Naval Hospital for treatment of infectious hepatitis.

Clark, 67, was on a world trip when he was stricken in Bangkok. He was hospitalized there before the decision to transfer him to Bethesda.

SAUSALITO, Calif. (AP)—Michael Prescott Goldwater, 26, son of 1964 presidential candidate Barry Goldwater, plans to marry Constance Jean Stockert of Sausalito next December.

Goldwater, a resident of nearby Mill Valley, is studying the real estate business. His fiancée, a stewardess for Trans World Airlines, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Stockert of Shawnee Mission, Kan., a Kansas City suburb.

Patrol Is Having Problems

SALINA, Kan. (AP)—Out here in the West, where the 260 miles on Interstate 70 from Salina to the Colorado line is just a whoop and a holler, some terrifying things are happening to motorists from the East.

(East—anywhere east of the Mississippi River.)

Lt. Cleo Morrow of the Kansas Highway Patrol remembers the man from Chicago who struck out for a farmhouse when his engine failed. He thought the house was a mile away; but it was four—and even at four a Kansan could have told you it was deserted.

"The trooper on that segment came along," Morrow says, "and there was that empty car with out-of-state plates and we knew we would have to go up and look for him."

"We found him right away. He was just out there in the fields—exhausted."

The troopers found him right away from one of the three airplanes they use to patrol interstate highways out in the wide open spaces.

Eighteen men, six cars and the planes barely can meet the patrolling standards set by the federal government on the 260-mile segment of Interstate 70.

"Say I'm starting west and a mile behind me a guy runs out of gas—I'm not going to be back his way for an hour," Lt. Morrow says.

Trooper Ed Gebhardt remembers coming on a woman from New York in that fix. Her eyes were slightly glazed from an hour of fretting.

"It's so empty around here," she said.

A Kansan would have upped his hood as a distress signal and sat back to contemplate the hills and the days when they were black with buffalo.

Another booby trap for the Easterner is the fact that every exit from the interstates does not necessarily lead to a filling station.

The Hedville, Kan., exit, for example.

"We have some fine grain elevators down there in Hedville, but no gas," says Lt. Morrow.

Morrow and his men feel one answer to their problem is more airplanes—slower airplanes.

Harrow was practicing landings along Interstate 70 this week in a plane which can take off in 330 feet, land in 110, fly as fast as 180 miles an hour and as slow as 28.

It is the Helio Courier Mark II, made at Pittsburg, Kan., and the Kansas Highway Patrol has proposed that the federal government finance a year-long test of its utility for patrolling.

At 28 miles an hour, Lt. Morrow figures, a patrolman could manage a one-way loud-speaker conversation with a stranded motorist and determine the dimensions of his plight.

"It would help all our stranded drivers, especially the Easterners, if a plane could come down and talk to them until a trooper arrives," Lt. Morrow said.

"I am a young man of 24. Three weeks ago I married a beautiful girl I met at a fish fry in the Catskill Mountains. Since then our life has been one perfect song.

"Each morning my darling wraps in a love letter the chicken sandwich I carry to the office for lunch. She gets up early to write the letter before leaving for her own job.

"I am so happy that it makes the fellows I work with envious. They keep saying, 'You don't know what marriage is really like until the honeymoon is over.' Will you please tell me how I'll know when the honeymoon really is over?

"Anxious Benedict"

Dear Benedict:

Shame on your cynical office friends. They should let you enjoy your happiness while it lasts.

For, alas, there is some truth to their remarks: All honeymoons do come to an end eventually, as man was not born to swoon in eternal bliss on earth.

How can you tell when this happens in your case? Well, it happens to most couples in the same way. There are many signs. You can figure your honeymoon is over when—

She'd rather go into the living room and watch television than stay in the kitchen and watch you do the dishes.

You start a war with her relatives or she starts a war with yours.

With a chill sense of foreboding you make the disheartening discovery that, wonderful as she is in other ways, she can't concoct a potable martini.

No longer does she close her eyes when you kiss her goodby in the morning. Instead she grumbles, "You're musing my lipstick."

She decides it is hurting your manly pride for her to work, so she quits her job and tells you that you'll simply have to ask your boss for a raise.

Your lunch sandwich is wrapped in a newspaper—not a love letter—and it's made of baloney, not chicken.

You courteously ask her to please quit hanging up her stockings on the bathroom shower rod, and that starts a battle that lasts until 2 a.m.

You wonder if that pallid creature in hair curlers sitting across from you at the breakfast table is the girl of your dreams or just a leftover nightmare.

She begins finding fault with your disreputable bachelor pals, and one by one they disappear from your social life.

She tells you that your snoring is keeping her awake, and gets mad when you tell her that she snores, too.

Your bad habits she found so endearing when you were courting her, she now finds unendurable.

She no longer wonders if she should call the police and report you missing if you're more than 62 minutes late coming home from work.

Tearfully she threatens to go home to mother, but calls the trip off because there's so little money in the bank she'd have to hitchhike if she went.

Yep, those are signs the honeymoon is over, son. And that's a good time to start preparing your bride what a grand time she'll have on her second one—if she can just hold out till your golden wedding anniversary.

Battle Over Books

NEW DELHI (AP) — Communists in the Indian capital and members of the right-wing Jan Sangh Party are locked in a bitter poster war. The Communists claim credit for preventing a price hike for textbooks. The Jan Sangh, which has a majority in the City Council, says no price hike ever was contemplated.

Political posters are prohibited in the capital, but most parties have ignored the ban — without penalty.

Low necklines Are Now Taboo

NEW DELHI (AP) — In a drive to "help maintain dignity and decorum," the Indian government has told female employees that low necklines and gaudy saris are taboo. Vidya C. Shukla, a Home Ministry official, said the rules on dress have been sent to the more than 50,000 female government workers.

Famous Last

BALTIMORE (AP) — As the boatload of U.S. Jaycees approached Fort McHenry during a tour of Baltimore Harbor, the commentator told them the fort is one of the few places in the nation where the flag flies 24 hours a day.

The band played "The Star-Spangled Banner." The Jaycees rushed to the rail to look. No flag was flying over the fort.

A call later determined that the flagpole was being painted that night.

In the Civil War, the first Union victory of any consequence was the Battle of Philippi, which also marked the war's entry into what is now the state of West Virginia.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 22 (old enough to know better), and I made a big mistake. I was going with a wonderful young man who had two more years to finish professional school. I told him I'd wait.

Just as we were about to announce our engagement I had some girl-talks with my sorority sisters and they said the fellow was nice but he was "funny looking" and I'd be ashamed of his looks as the years went on. Like a fool I broke off with him.

That was four months ago and now I am eating my heart out. The handsome Jacks are nothing compared with my old flame and I want him back. Any advice?—FOOLISH GIRL

Dear Fool: Run, don't walk, to the nearest phone. Call the old flame and level with him. If he hasn't replaced you with a dame who has a full set of brains consider yourself plenty lucky. I'll keep my fingers crossed, Buttercup.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: You probably know as much about human nature as almost anybody in the world. I am no Ann Landers but I, too, have a front row seat to what goes on in people's lives. I run a coin laundry.

First, let me tell you I am a man. People call me an extravert. My wife says I have a big mouth and no tact. I am writing because I want to pin a rose on every hard working wife who never thinks of herself as a heroine. Believe me, she really is.

Night after night I see women come in here carrying big bundles of laundry. Sometimes they are pregnant. "Where's your hubby?" I ask them, and the answers are always the same. "At the ball game," or "Asleep in front of the TV" or "He had to go out some place."

Before I got into the laundry business I used to think that a man who held a steady job had a right to sit on his duff when he got home at night but I have changed my tune. Those women who haul in the bundles of laundry have also been working all day.

Dear Florida: Here's the letter and, like you, I don't expect any miracles either, but it should make the wives feel better—and I hope it does.

Dear Ann Landers: I am in bad trouble. I saw an article in a store that I wanted. It cost 75 cents. Dad said I didn't need it, so I took it when the clerk wasn't looking. I know it was wrong. I shouldn't have taken it. But I did and now I am in a real jam.

I showed the article to my brother and that was a big mistake. He says I have to let him have his way all the time now or he will tell my dad about the article I stole.

Please help me out of this and I will never take anything that doesn't belong to me again as long as I live.—WORRIED STIFF

Dear Stiff: Go to your father and confess. Ask him how you can earn 75 cents to pay for the article. Then take the money to the store, tell the clerk what you did pay for the article and let this be a lesson to you. And you can tell your brother that a Anthropologists believe that before man began cooking he must have spent most of his waking hours chewing food. Once having learned to cook and thus break down the tough fibers of meats and roots, he was able to cut his eating time to about two hours a day.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An effort to trade their 14-year-old son for another teenager has ballooned into a nationwide youth exchange program for Mr. and Mrs. Jules Williams of East Lansing.

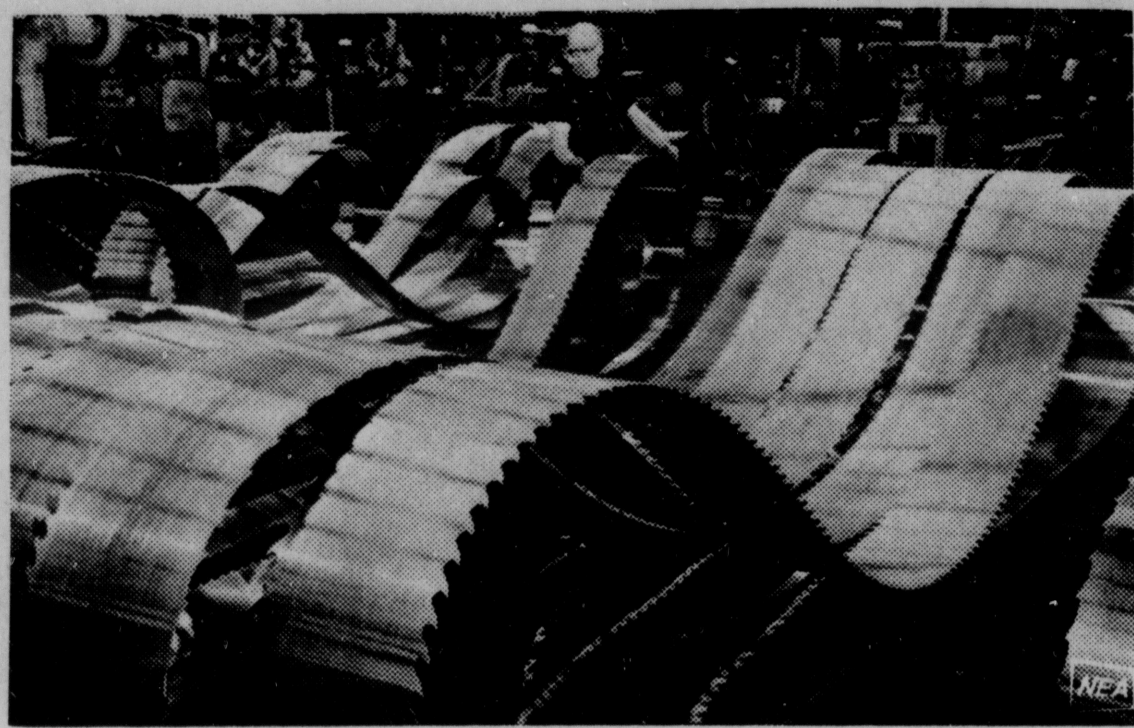

It wasn't planned that way. Mr. and Mrs. Williams merely placed a small ad in the Humanist magazine offering to swap their son Brian for another family's teen-age son or daughter for a year.

In the past week, the family has been flooded with replies to the ad—so many the parents decided to start a clearing agency, the American Youth Exchange, to arrange similar trades for other teen-agers and their families.

"We weren't trying to get rid of Brian. He's not rowdy or dissatisfied," said Mrs. Williams. "He's come to take this community's advantages for granted. Having him live with another family in another community will help him become aware of the opportunities available."

Brian, a bright, mop-top 6-footer who considers East Lansing "a drag," is "very enthusiastic" about being traded, said his father. Tentative arrangements for a trade have been made with a family in California.

Journey to an Earthbound Moon

The pilot at left peers through a porthole and sees the moon looming amid a star-studded night in space. Countdown begins for a lunar landing, all while sitting in the safety of a converted airplane hangar at Bethpage, N.Y. There Grumman Aircraft Co. has developed a mock flight for training purposes, complete with appropriate craft attitude and space scenes projected on the space module window by television cameras.

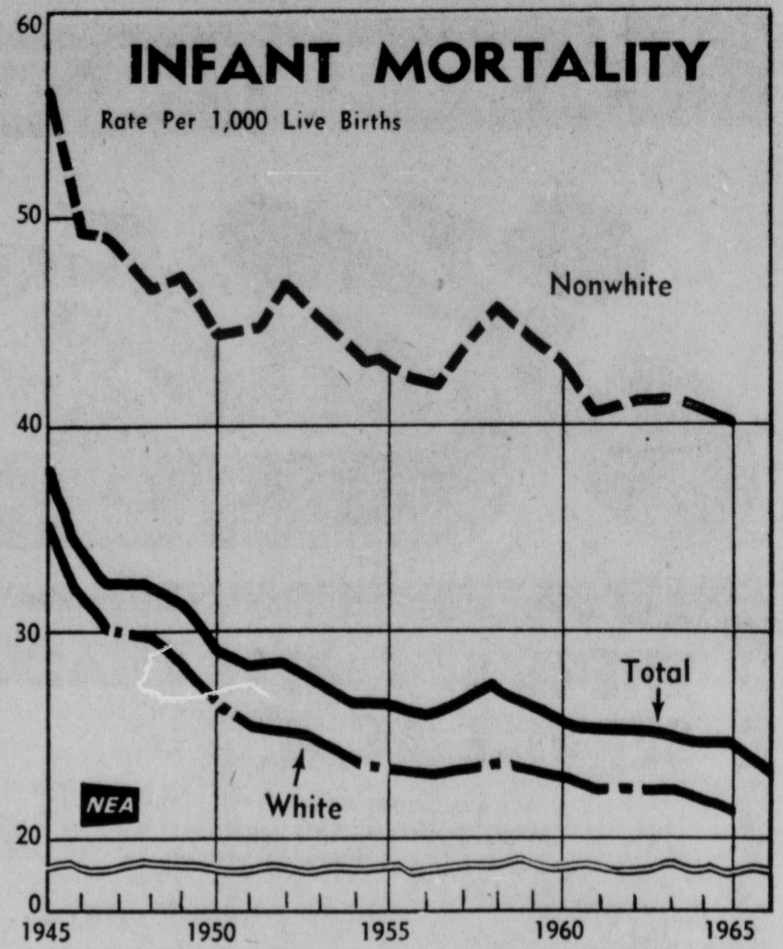

An image of a star-filled night sky is created by televising a moving, spangled black globe. Besides causing pilot reaction to visual approaches, the system also makes demanding tests on equipment aboard the space craft.

A moonscape is scanned by television cameras for projection on the module window.

Stored in IBM computers are simulated conditions of a lunar landing, which cause realistic reaction of the space craft to the pilot's maneuvering.

Last year, some 3,629,000 babies were born in the United States and 84,800 died during the first year of life. The figures translate into an infant mortality rate 23.4 in 1,000 live births, an all-time low for the nation. However, National Center for Health Statistics figures show the rate of decline in infant mortality has slowed in recent years and remains almost twice as high for the nonwhite population as among whites.

Acting As Buffer For Police

BALTIMORE (Md. AP) — It was hot and steamy and the temperature inside the small room was over 90 degrees when the middle-aged Negro man came in to report a theft.

A young Negro policeman listened to the older man, asked a few tactful but incisive questions, then dispatched a patrolman to the man's residence.

Two Negro youths came into the room, seating themselves in the warm breeze stirred up by an old fan, and asked about a bus the next day to a swimming pool.

It was the same all day as Negro residents streamed into the room. And as the day wore on, the crisp white shirt of Patrolman James Greene, 32, began to wilt, and perspiration glistened on his forehead. It was, after all, a radical change from the rural tranquility of his last job, which was teaching in the Pittsylvania County, Virginia school system.

It would not be an exaggeration to say that Greene was the only buffer between official Baltimore and the same Negro community which threatened only weeks earlier to erupt into violence.

In the same area earlier in the summer, Negroes milled about in nightly demonstrations protesting the segregated practices of some taverns.

Greene was chosen to man a one-man Police Community Relations Center. The many tasks he would have including watching for trouble, hearing complaints, doing something about those complaints he could handle, and helping to establish a dialogue between the police department and the Negro.

Closed hearings began Wednesday in Washington, where the Senate Military Preparedness subcommittee met to discuss the bombing of North Vietnam amid charges that U.S. pilots are "handcuffed by secret restraints" barring air raids on key military targets. Greene, a graduate of the North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College in Greensboro, N.C., has handled his new job with the savoir-faire of a career diplomat and psychologist rolled into one.

He said merely hearing the complaints of the residents often was enough. Any danger of rioting or violence, he said, had

Full Effect Has Not Been Felt

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The full effects of the 1967 urban riots have not yet been felt by the American economy, nor will they be felt for many months—or even years from now.

In fact, the riots have barely been reflected in any of the statistics maintained by economists and government officials. And the full impact will not be revealed by statistics anyway.

When the nation attempts to remedy the causes of these riots it will mean a more powerful public sector of the economy and therefore a relatively smaller private sector. This may be the major impact.

The public sector, which includes federal, state and local governments, already is growing at a swifter pace than the private or business sector. One reason, of course, is the cost of the Vietnam war.

When the war ends, will this gap be filled by the private sector? History says no; seldom is all the power acquired in war relinquished in peace.

But there are more important factors to consider than history: while history is an examination of the past, the real story of the nature of the American economy lies in plans now being made by the public sector.

Among the problems that increasingly will occupy public officials are pollution control, transportation, slum clearance, health and education. The huge measure of these problems seems to demand government aid.

Add to this the emotional, social and political consequences of the recent riots and it seems inevitable that more federal, state and local government money will be spent in search of solutions and improvements.

An indication of this was provided this week when Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey

Prisoners Terrorize a Woman

TUCKER, Ga. (AP) — Two escaped prisoners held a terrified young woman hostage for nearly three hours Tuesday, most of the time with a gun at her throat, before law enforcement officers talked them into surrendering on a crowded interstate highway.

The dental receptionist, Martha Ann Mobley, 20, collapsed into the arms of police and ambulance attendants screaming, "Thank God! Thank God!" after her captors freed her.

Officers said the leader of the two convicts, James S. Lowe, 23, cocked and uncocked the .38-caliber revolver he held at Miss Mobley's head as they pleaded with him to let her go. They said he also threatened to kill his fellow escapee, Bobby Joel Jerry Yarbrough, 23, State Patrol Maj. Porter

Weaver said Lowe told him, "You don't think I'll kill this girl, do you? I think I'll just kill this fellow with me to show you that I mean business."

Lowe first demanded that he be allowed to escape in a car with the woman and a policeman accompanying him, then demanded to see Gov. Lester Maddox, to whom four escaped convicts surrendered several months ago at the governor's mansion to dramatize alleged poor prison conditions. The incident touched off a probe of prison conditions.

Miss Mobley's ordeal began when the two Stone Mountain prison camp convicts were taken to the office of a Tucker dentist, Dr. Robert D. Hiller.

At Hiller's office, officers said, Lowe pulled a knife and forced a guard to hand over his pistol. He and Yarbrough forced Miss Mobley, Hiller's receptionist, to flee with them in the prison's pick-up truck in a high-speed chase on Interstate 85 through evening rush hour traffic.

Police from Norcross shot three of the truck's tires and it swerved to a halt just off the highway near the DeKalb-Gwinnett county line.

Lowe fired several shots at police officers said, then held them off with the gun at the woman's throat. He ordered a police car moved, threatening to kill the girl.

Some 50 law-enforcement officers including the FBI, state patrol DeKalb, Gwinnett and Atlanta police converged on the scene.

Traffic backed up on the four-lane highway for miles in both directions, halted by roadblocks.

Lowe said he would talk with FBI agent Richard Davis, who had been questioning him in recent days in connection with a federal violation. Police summoned Davis and the agent and Weaver pleaded with Lowe.

"We talked a long time," said Weaver, bodyguard to former Gov. Carl Sanders and now head of the patrol. "I lost all track of time. We convinced them that no matter how bad things were now, it would be much worse for them both if he killed the girl or one of us."

Weaver said Lowe finally surrendered after he was promised some minor concessions such as being taken to the west wing of the DeKalb County jail where he said he had some friends, and being allowed to talk to a special solicitor he considered a friend.

Both prisoners were serving 12-month sentences for burglary and larceny, a prison spokesman said.

called for "a Marshall Plan for the impoverished areas of America." To carry out such a plan would mean government money and involvement.

The fact that Humphrey's statement was not supported by funds does not dispel the possibility that these thoughts might some day become true. All plans have a conception and gestation before birth.

Even now government purchases of goods and services have been rising each quarter without exception for at least three years.

In the second quarter of 1964, for example, the total of government purchases was at an annual rate of $129.2 billion. This had risen to $133.9 billion by the second quarter of 1965, to $151.2 billion a year later and to $175.2 billion in 1967.

Not all of this was federal spending, of course. In fact, some recent statistics tend to show that the state and local governments are growing even faster in some ways.

Stripped naked, however, the one thing these figures indicate is a greater involvement of government in our lives—for better or worse.

The ingredients were fermenting for a long time. The riots, and the focus they have given to urban problems, have now been added to the recipe.

Progress on Streets

Have you ridden over West Fourth street lately from Kentucky avenue to Grand avenue? No. Then you are in for a surprise. A substantial thickness of blacktop now covers the old and holey brick pavement. What a relief to motorists.

This is just one of the numerous projects of the Street and Alley department. Another will be smoothing out Missouri avenue soon between Second and Third streets. This used to be a portion of U.S. Highway 65 which took an awful beating from truck and other traffic before the highway route was changed to its present location through the west end of town.

Innumerable holes in streets all over Sedalia are being plugged as the department operates in high gear. Councilman Walter Jessee, chairman of the Street and Alley committee, put it mildly when he reported to City Council the department "was getting along fairly well with street improvements."

It looks like superb progress to us even though there is a lot more to be done. Evidence indicates this department has diligent personnel under good management.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Arkansas Senator Protects CATV

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., has one of the highest bile counts on Capitol Hill, and his dour expression gives authority to his image as the Senate's chief investigator.

With a terrible wrath, he has become the scourge of labor racketeers, gambling operators and vice lords—except those who had the foresight to conduct their business in his native Hot Springs, Ark.

While McClellan has been crusading against crime and labor, however, he has scrupulously avoided any investigations that might embarrass big business. Indeed, he has been the intrepid champion of the banks, oil companies and other special interests.

Occasionally he has turned up with financial investments in some of these same institutions.

—CATV CONFLICT—

His latest maneuver, which he has conducted in the back rooms rather than the hearing rooms of Congress, is to seek an unprecedented, 18-month moratorium on copyright lawsuits against the CATV industry.

CATV companies bring network television programs into areas which might not otherwise be able to pick them up. This is done by trapping television signals from distant cities and piping them into homes for a subscription fee. Performers and writers whose works are being pirated have started to make noises about suing the CATV companies for royalties.

To head off the threatened suits, the CATV attorneys drafted a bill which would bar copyrights suits until Jan. 1, 1969. A draft of the bill, entitled "Temporary suspension of judicial remedies," was slipped to McClellan, who promised to introduce it.

As chairman of the judiciary subcommittee on patents, trademarks and copyrights, he is in a unique position to steer the bill through the Senate. He has already served notice on colleagues that he is a friend of the CATV industry.

"I will oppose anything I think will destroy CATV," he has said.

He has neglected to mention to his colleagues, however, that he holds valuable stock in one of the CATV giants—Midwest Video, which has outlets in Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, South Dakota and Texas. His late son and son-in-law were also among the early stockholders.

—BANKING CONFLICT—

Probably nothing can get McClellan out of his Senate chair faster, however, than a challenge to the banks. He has bitterly opposed the chartering of new national banks, which would give the old-line banks some competition.

When a group attempted to establish a new bank in West Memphis, Ark., 11 years ago, he helped the

This is in contrast with the lively headline which attracts the reader to the content of the article. The title of a sermon subject can perform the same function. The church pastor who produces a few magnetic words for his sermon title may invite more listeners.

A friendly correspondent writes: "On Fridays I turn to the Democrat's church page to see what my pastor will preach about on Sunday. He doesn't know it but most of the time his subject sounds so interesting I can hardly wait for Sunday morning to come."

—O—

The subject of flowers being removed from graves in Sedalia's cemeteries has been discussed several times here the past few years, but this comment from our observing correspondent sends chills up a person's spine:

"Several years ago a friend informed me there was a woman in Sedalia who always had lovely bouquets in her living room. When asked where she got them she replied that she just watched the newspaper and after a funeral and burial she would go to the cemetery and get the flowers from the grave. That way she had flowers the year round. I hope she doesn't live in Sedalia anymore. She must have been a sick person to do that."

Sick? What a tender word!

existing West Memphis Bank to block it. He put B. J. Lambert, the bank president, in touch with then comptroller of the currency Ray Gidney, who was in charge of issuing bank charters. None was issued to the new bank.

Ten years later, McClellan attempted to block another group from chartering a bank in West Memphis, and also opposed the establishment of a new national bank in Little Rock. He forwarded letters to the then comptroller James Saxon, opposing both charters.

But Saxon happened to favor more bank competition. Enraged, McClellan held hearings into the failures of three newly chartered banks and used these unusual cases to discredit all new charters.

He also appeared before the American Bankers Association convention to charge that "too many national banks are being unwisely chartered too fast and too freely."

As he explained his views at a press conference, observers spotted among the reporters none other than B. J. Lambert, the West Memphis bank president.

In all his fire-and-brimstone attacks on new charters, McClellan never mentioned that he was a stockholder in both the West Memphis bank and the First National bank of Little Rock, the two old-line banks fighting the charters. Indeed, McClellan is listed as one of the top 20 stockholders in First National.

—OIL CONFLICT—

It is also worth recalling how McClellan handled the great investigation into oil lobbying a few years ago. This was precipitated by a $2,500 bribe which bagmen for an oil company tried to hand to the late Sen. Francis Case, R-S.D., in a brown paper sack.

Senator Case exposed the clumsy bribe attempt, and Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., announced his elections subcommittee would investigate. Lyndon Johnson, then the Senate Majority Leader, kept after Gore for 10 days to relinquish jurisdiction to another less hostile committee.

LBJ finally succeeded in maneuvering the probe into McClellan's hands. This relentless investigator, who usually strikes terror in the hearts of wrongdoers hauled before his committee, treated the oil industry almost tenderly. The investigation dribbled along unspectacularly, then faded away without going beyond the Case incident. No one was embarrassed except those whom Case had already fingered.

What the public never knew was that McClellan's law firm in Little Rock then represented Standard Oil of New Jersey, Seaboard Oil, Tidewater Associated Oil, and Carter Oil.

Perhaps it's time someone investigated the investigator.

Wave of Riots Is Damper On Congress' Exuberance

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Humor has always been an integral part of the Washington scene—the politicking, the decision making.

In the White House, in the Pentagon, on Capitol Hill, in the State Department, there's always a good story or a good line or a funny scene every week—something to spread through the halls for a good laugh and something for reporters and newscasters to pepper their work for "a lighter touch."

But because of Newark and Detroit, Milwaukee and the threat of the next ghetto riot, humor today in Washington is hard to find.

"I haven't laughed in two weeks," said Rep. Albert Quie (R-Minn.).

Some try. The multitude of newsletters and other politically partisan publications which come out here weekly still contain their "humor" features.

Take two items from the Republican Congressional Committee Newsletter, for example:

"LBJ says riots and civil disturbances will not be tolerated. Encouraged maybe—but not tolerated."

"The same administration that plans Vietnam strategy is now trying to cope with domestic riots. Vietnam, of course is the 'longest war' Now it looks as though this will be the 'endless summer.'"

On a "normal" week, dealing with a "normal" political issue, the two GOP jibes at President Johnson would have evoked the usual chuckles. Lately it is not the same.

So it was in the Congress when House comedians were out full force in the debate over whether to debate the now infamous "Rat Bill."

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG
Salts and Castor Oil Just Extend Gaseous ConditionBy WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I am a housewife, 67. When my elimination slows down I fill up with gas. Please don't advise me to take salts or castor oil because they make me sick.

A—I would not advise these or any other laxatives because they would increase your gas production rather than relieve it. That is because they sweep the food from your small intestine into your colon before the sugars and starches have had time to be completely digested and absorbed into your blood. In the colon they are met by fermentative bacteria. Gas is a product of fermentation. Worry about slow elimination, which is not harmful in itself, is probably the chief cause of your trouble.

Q—I am taking Mylicon for gas. What does this drug contain? Can it be taken indefinitely?

A—Mylicon is the trade name for simethicone. It is a defoaming agent used to relieve habitual air swallowers and persons with irritable colon or other conditions in which gaseous distention is a problem. There are no known side effects so, if it helps you, you can take it indefinitely.

Q—What causes my stomach to gurgle when I am in bed at night?

A—The gurgling is in your intestines rather than your

This measure, which would have provided $40 million over two years to help exterminate disease-carrying, crop-destroying rats in the slums and on the farms, was beaten, in effect, rather soundly.

The debate to debate the "Rat Bill" took place while Newark smoldered. Congress, in turning back the appropriation, was not saying that rats in the ghettos are not a problem. It was saying that there is enough antirrat money already, and that it was a state and local problem, not a federal one.

Newark answered that rats were one of many ghetto ills and needed immediate attention, no matter where it came from.

Still, the chaos of Newark wasn't yet in perspective and the tragedy of Detroit was still to come. Congress laughed in the Rat Bill debate. It hasn't since.

"I think it would be a rat smart thing to vote this down rat now," said one congressman on the House floor.

Said a Democrat: "Too expensive. This outlay, all things considered, comes to about $6 per rat to exterminate them."

"How about snake bite cases?" another in the House debate snickered. "How about bugs? Are we to forget about people bitten by bugs? Should we start a bug corps?"

Another got up and chortled that in his district, there was one llama bite recorded last year.

So Congress had a laugh that day and so did some who saw it, talked about it, reported it or read it.

But that was while Newark was just lighting up. It was before Detroit, Milwaukee

Confess Error, Get on with It

If you make a mistake you have several ways to explain it. You can be frank and admit to a brainstorm or even a blackout. You can explain that you made an error in judgment or even that you took a wrong view.

We rather favor admitting the error and concentrating on not making it again.

South had a mighty sound no-trump opening and was fully justified in going to game after North used the Stayman two-club bid and then went to two no-trump. West opened the three of hearts and dummy's jack held the trick. The king of clubs was played from dummy and some 10 minutes later South had gone down two tricks. He might have saved one from the wreckage but once he went wrong in clubs he was doomed to defeat.

South complained about bad luck and conceded that he had taken a wrong view. Actually, he had made a mistake.

His only worry was if one opponent held three clubs. He didn't know anything about their distribution except that it looked as if West had opened a fourth best heart. The chances were, therefore, that West did not have a five-card suit. If he did not have a five-card suit he couldn't be void of any other suit. Therefore, West had at least one club and South should have led a club toward his ace.

Doesn't anyone ever lead fifth or even sixth best? Of course they do but not as often as they lead fourth best.

We do sympathize somewhat with South. We would sympathize a lot more if he had realized that he had gone against percentage and resolved to be more careful in the future.

Johnson Facing Policy Criticism

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Around his head the doves coo and the hawks caw and President Johnson plods along, keeping the war going, sending in more men, asking a tax boost to help pay the bill. This week a dove and a hawk swooped at the same time, and nothing illustrates better the fix he's in.

The dove was one of Johnson's fellow Democrats Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate's powerful Foreign Relations Committee. Fulbright, Johnson's most persistent critic, wants the war toned down.

The hawk was the leader of House Republicans, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, who has backed the President consistently on the war. But he, too, has been a critic, constantly complaining that Johnson wasn't fighting it hard enough or explaining enough. He wants the war intensified.

Fulbright has read many ominous things into the war and this week came up with a new one. He linked Vietnam with the Negro riots in this country, saying "the 'Great Society' has become a sick society by trying to cope with Vietnam and the riots at the same time."

"Each war feeds on the other," he said. "At home largely because of neglect resulting from 25 years of preoccupation with foreign involvements, our cities are exploding in violent protest against generations of social injustice."

He asked, "How can we commend democratic social reform in Latin America when Newark, Detroit and Milwaukee are providing explosive evidence of our own inadequate efforts at democratic social reform?"

Although both Johnson and Fulbright are Southern Democrats, Johnson was the master pilot in getting civil rights legislation through Congress repeatedly while Fulbright voted against every civil rights bill approved by Congress in this century—1967, 1960, 1964 and 1965.

And in 1956 Fulbright, along with 95 other Southern Democrats, signed the Southern Manifesto denouncing the Supreme Court's 1954 decision outlawing segregation and pledging by "all lawful means" to have it reversed.

Johnson was banged from the opposite direction when Ford demanded intensification of the bombing of North Vietnam. He objected to sending one more American to Vietnam until the President ends the restraints on U.S. bombing missions against the North.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said in defense of the administration that Ford was ignoring the American objective which is not to broaden the war and not to waste American lives on bombing missions against targets considered insignificant. By broadening the war McNamara undoubtedly meant such intensified bombing that Red China might jump in to bail out North Vietnam.

Ford was calling for heavier action against the Communists early in 1965, before this country had begun the steady bombing of the North. This has been a repeated theme of Ford's.

Johnson thought he had done a pretty good job of explaining the war to the American people in a speech he gave at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore in April 1965.

But Ford has followed a line which probably irritates Johnson more than Ford's complaints that the war isn't tough enough. That's a steady plea that Johnson explain the war and the American position to the people.

In fact, Ford started doing that two days after Johnson made his Baltimore speech. For some reason Johnson, who has often talked about Vietnam, thinks he has given ample explanation.

The fact is, his various statements on the war are not full length explanations. He has made very few of those. More people than Ford are telling him so. It should be no surprise if he gives a long explanation some time soon.

Letter to Editor

L. L. STUDER (721 West Third St.): — It now appears in the press that members of City Council will make a study that may lead to the submission of a huge bond issue to build a new City Hall. Sedalia now has a fairly good City Hall of brick construction well located in the downtown area and with ample space provided for the various offices. It is true that the city police chambers and the council chambers are located on the second floor of the City Hall which makes it necessary for many of our citizens to use the stairways nearly every day. But there is no reason at all why they should not be located on the ground floor with an entrance from Second Street leading to 1,152 square feet of modern floor space with concrete floor, walls and ceilings which is not being used for anything except storage. During my four years term as Mayor of Sedalia, I tried my very best to have the Council members authorize the small expense necessary to locate the police and council chambers from the second floor to this modern location on the first floor. Council declined to do it. There is no doubt that it will require a huge bond issue to construct a new city hall but if such a bond is submitted to the voters, there is no doubt that it will be over-whelmingly defeated.

Campobello Shrine

The hundreds of tourists who daily visit the summer cottage at Campobello, New Brunswick, where the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt suffered paralysis, are most impressed with the red Dutch Colonial house. A total of 34 rooms is a fair sized cottage, but since the estate has become an international park, belonging to both Canada and the United States, the number of daily visitors is growing.

The cottage became famous when it was the scene of the motion picture "Sunrise at Campobello," starring Ralph Bellamy and Greer Garson as Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt. Elliot Roosevelt sold the property to the Hammer family (New York art dealers) in 1952. It was through the generosity of the Hammers that Campobello was donated to the two nations as a memorial to F.D.R. The cottage, although on British soil, was the summer home of the late President's parents for many years until it was given to Franklin by his mother. The five Roosevelt grandchildren and their children spent their summers there for many years. It was symbolic that the Queen Mother Elizabeth was the first official visitor to the new Reception Center which has been built since Campobello became an international park in 1963.

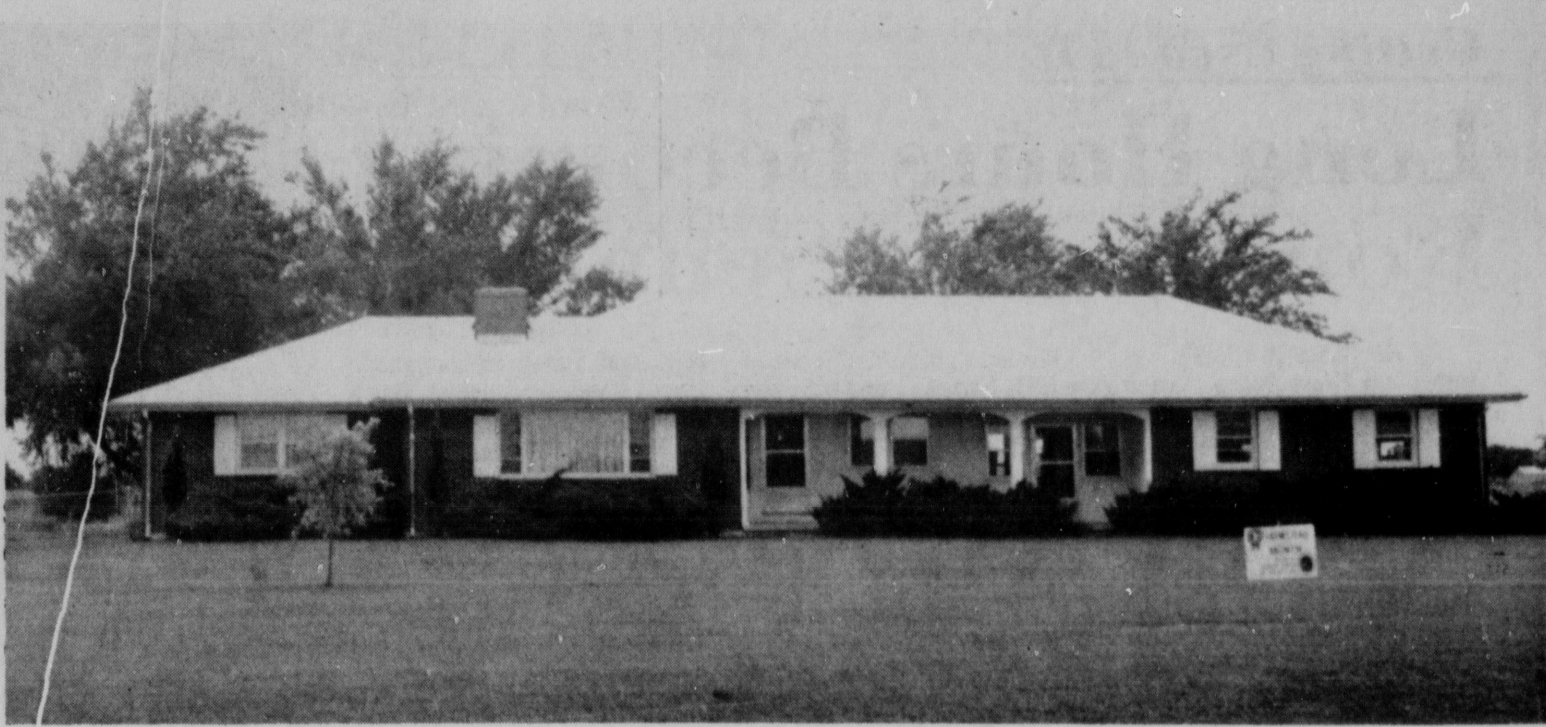

There are no souvenir shops at Campobello; the big old house is what people come to see. Committee chairmen of the park alternate between American and Canadian officials.

Dies While Posing At Cliff Edge

DEAD HORSE POINT, Utah (AP) — Edgar Hayes, 59, veteran guide from Moab, Utah, was driving a group of eight tourists on a scenic trip through this southeastern Utah Red Rock Desert when they stopped to take pictures of the Colorado River twisting in hairpin curves far below.

Someone asked Hayes to pose on the edge of the cliff known as Dead Horse Point, named after a group of wild horses that perished here in pioneer days.

He walked to the rim, slipped on some loose rock and plunged 600 feet to his death.

National Rate Is Soaring

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's crime rate rocketed 48 per cent in the last six years—with violent crimes soaring 11 per cent last year alone —FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported today.

In its annual report on U.S. crime, the FBI reported:

—Since 1960, while the nation grew 9 per cent, the volume of crime, the FBI reported:

—In the past year the per capita crime rate was up 10.2 per cent while the number of crimes rose 11.4 per cent.

—The number of serious crimes solved averaged 24 per cent, a drop of 8 per cent below the number solved the previous year. The percentage of crimes solved also dropped 8 per cent over the previous five-year period.

The report estimated that nearly 3.25 million serious crimes were committed in 1966, including an estimated 10,920 homicides. More than $1.2 billion in property was lost but more than half of this later was recovered.

The report noted that statistical reporting of crimes from local jurisdictions has improved in recent years but it observed that arrest statistics, for example, were submitted by agencies representing only 70 per cent of the U.S. population.

The report listed as factors affecting crime such conditions as economic status and mores of the population, weather, attitude toward law enforcement problems and "composition of the population with reference particularly to age, sex and race."

Hoover said that during the past year the 11 per cent jump in violent crimes was led by robbery, up 14 per cent; forcible rape up 10; homicide 11, and aggravated assault 9.

Property crimes also were up 11 per cent, with larceny over $50 up 10 per cent and automobile theft up 13 per cent.

The report noted that while 54 per cent of those arrested for larceny were under 18, this group accounted for 63 per cent of those booked for auto theft.

Of all offenses on the FBI's crime index, the report said, "auto theft had, by far, the largest percentage of arrests of persons under 18."

The report also included the latest material on the FBI's "Careers in Crime" study in which the bureau follows the activities of offenders who pass through the federal criminal justice system.

The report said a followup on nearly 18,000 such persons released by the federal system in 1963 showed 55 per cent were rearrested for new crimes within two and a half years.

Specifically, 47 per cent of those released on probation in 1963 were rearrested within 2½ years. Of those paroled, 57 per cent were rearrested and of these released early for good behavior, 67 per cent were rearrested for new offenses within 2½ years.

"A significant statistic was the fact that 83 per cent of those persons acquitted or who had their cases dismissed in 1963 were rearrested for new crimes within 30 months," the report said.

Hoover is a longtime critic of what he views as a lenient attitude taken by the courts toward suspected or convicted offenders.

Getting Used to It

Long Hours Becoming Routine For Senators

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

You can try the patience of the Washington Senators for just so long—say 19 innings—and then they react.

The Senators lost to Baltimore 7-5 in 19 innings June 4. Eight days later, they hooked up with Chicago in the longest night in major league history in both innings (22) and time (six hours, 38 minutes) and won 6-5.

Then Wednesday, they got caught up in the second longest night game and won again, 9-7 over Minnesota in 20 innings.

"I'm getting used to it," was the joking reaction of Washington catcher Paul Casanova, who played every inning of all three marathon games, and won the 22-inning affair with a bases-loaded single.

"You never get used to them," said a happy, but somewhat more serious Gil Hodges, the Senators' manager.

"When you blow a seven-run lead with two out, something is wrong," said unhappy Minnesota Manager Cal Erner.

What was wrong were four straight singles and a homer. They came with two on and two out in the seventh inning and produced seven runs to tie the game.

Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit topped first-place Chicago 4-2. Boston whipped Kansas City 5-1, California blanked New York 7-0 and Cleveland edged Baltimore 4-3.

St. Louis nipped Los Angeles 3-2 in 11 innings. Cincinnati drubbed Houston 7-3. New York belted Atlanta 5-1 and Chicago split with Pittsburgh, winning 6-0 before losing 10-6 in National League action. San Francisco and Philadelphia were rained out.

Washington's Ken McMullen hit his 14th homer to give the Senators an 8-7 lead in the top of the 20th.

Washington added another run when Frank Howard, whose three-run homer climaxed the seventh-inning uprising, followed McMullen with a double and scored on Dick Nen's sacrifice fly.

Dave Baldwin then retired the Twins in the home half of the 20th for his first victory in four decisions as the sixth-place Senators climbed to the .500 mark and to within 6½ games of first place.

After six innings it had looked as if the Twins would move to within 1½ games of the top. They led 7-0 and Dave Boswell was sailing along on a two-hitter.

Then with two on and two out, Tim Cullen singled home two runs, and Mudecat Grant replaced Boswell. Mike Epstein singled, Ed Stroud's single brought in a run and McMullen singled in another.

In came Ron Kline, and out went Howard's 99th homer for a tie game.

After Dick Lines got the Twins out in the seventh, Darold Knowles came on to limit them to three hits, walked two and strike out 10 in the next 10 innings before giving way to Baldwin.

Minnesota used 21 players and Washington 19 in the game which took 5:40 to complete, tying it with the last June 17 Detroit-Kansas City game as the second longest night game in time consumed.

Detroit moved into third place ahead of Minnesota and just two games out by beating Chicago on Earl Wilson's five-hitter and the bat of Al Kaline.

Kaline supported Wilson, 15-9, with his 19th homer and a sacrifice fly. Detroit clinched it with two runs in the sixth on a sacrifice fly and an error.

Jim Lonborg flew in from Atlanta, where he is serving two weeks with the Army Reserve, to beat Kansas City and become the major league's first 16-game winner. He has lost five.

Jerry Adair drove in three runs for Boston, which replaced Minnesota in second place, 1½ games behind Chicago, and relief pitcher Sparky Lyle helped tut Lonborg in the eighth when Kansas City scored its run.

Veteran left-hander Curt Simmons, purchased by California from the Chicago Cubs last Sunday, made his AL debut a success by scattering 10 Yankee hits and being tough in the clutch.

Jose Cardenal drove in three California runs.

Cleveland got its four runs in the fifth, two on a homer by Vic Davalillo and Sam McDowell.

60-9, and Sonny Siebert made them stand up against Baltimore.

For Tony Perez

Extra Work Is Bringing Reward

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

A little extra work paid off for Tony Perez but it didn't do much for Philadelphia's corps of groundskeepers.

Perez, who had been having his troubles at the plate recently, tore out of his slump with two home runs and two singles, driving in four runs as Cincinnati ripped Houston 7-3 Wednesday.

The Philadelphia groundskeepers, caught with their tarpaulins rolled up when a sudden storm stuck Connie Mack Stadium, worked an hour getting the field in playing shape only to have the rains return and wash out the Phillies' game against San Francisco.

"I have been missing the pitch I generally hit best," Perez said after helping the Reds beat the Astros. Perez' bread and butter pitch is the fastball and he took some extra batting practice against it Tuesday. The dividends came Wednesday.

His two homers gave him 22 for the season and three in the last two days. They helped Gary Nolan win his ninth game.

In other National League action Wednesday, New York topped Atlanta 5-1. St. Louis edged Los Angeles 3-2 in 11 innings and Chicago split a doubleheader with Pittsburgh, winning 6-0 and then losing 10-6.

In the American League, Boston clipped Kansas City 5-1. Detroit dropped Chicago 4-2. Cleveland nipped Baltimore 4-3. Washington outlasted Minnesota 9-7 in 20 innings and California blanked New York 7-0.

Nolan had a one-hitter until the eighth inning and survived some late-inning shakiness to beat the Astros.

Two Houston errors set up a five-run Cincinnati third, climaxed by Perez' first homer. He homered again in the sixth and singled Pete Rose home with Cincinnati's final run in the eighth.

The Mets bunched four runs against Atlanta in the first inning, giving Tom Seaver a comfortable cushion for his 11th victory. Seaver, the 22-year-old rookie right-hander, allowed just three hits after the fourth inning as New York won its ninth game in 15 starts against the Braves.

Wes Parker's throwing error gave the Cardinals their 11-inning victory over the Dodgers. Mike Shannon opened the 11th with a double and after walks to Roger Maris and Phil Gagliano, Ed Bressoud popped to Parker. When the first baseman's routine throw to the plate was wide, Shannon scored from third.

Lou Brock and Bressoud, who hadn't had a run batted in all year, homered for the Cardinals while Dick Schofield and Jim Campanis connected for the Dodgers. Campanis pinch shot in the eighth sent the game into extra innings.

Ferguson Jenkins pitched a four-hitter and became the National League's first 15-game winner as the Cubs topped the Pirates in the third game. Jenkins struck out nine and retired 16 straight batters over one stretch. He also drove in two runs with a single in Chicago's four-run sixth.

Manny Sanguillen delivered a bases-loaded double that chased home three runs in the ninth inning and helped the Pirates to a 10-6 victory in the nightcap. Al Luplow had a three-run homer for Pittsburgh.

Experts Wrong On Cardinals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When the St. Louis Cardinals lost ace pitcher Bob Gibson with a broken leg five days after the All-Star game, the experts said the Redbirds were dead. When the Kansas City Athletics reached the All-Star break in a tailspin, manager Alvin Dark said Catfish Hunter and Jim Nash would lead a comeback the last half of the season.

The experts were dead wrong about the Cards. After Gibson's injury, the Redbirds had a 51-34 record. Gibson stood 10-6, the rest of the pitching staff 41-28, a .594 percentage. Wednesday night's 3-2 victory over Los Angeles gave the Redbirds a 68-43 record. Without Gibson, the staff has produced a 17-9 mark for a .654 percentage.

Dark was only half wrong about the A's. He felt his club needed only a little better hitting to get moving again, with Hunter and Nash on his side. A 5-1 loss to Boston in Kansas City pushed the A's a scant one game under .500 since the All-Star break, at 14-15, but Nash is only 2-4 and Hunter 1-3 in that span.

The A's, however, are hitting a robust .291 as a team in 29 games since the All-Star break, with Ken Harrelson at .374. Danny Cater .341 and Rick Monday .302 in that span. This is 64 points above the team figure of .227 at the All-Star break, when the club was 14 games under .500.

The Cardinals have increased their National League lead from 4 games when Gibson was hurt to 8½ games now. Their competitors failed to take advantage, playing mediocre .500 ball. But the point is, it would have taken a fantastic pace to overcome the sizzling .654 mark by Red Schoendienst's men since Gibson's injury.

Veteran Ed Bressoud, an infield insurance policy picked up by general manager Stan Musial, gave the Redbirds a big boost with his first home run of the season to tie the game 1-1 in the third. Hot hitting Lou Brock then hit No. 15 for a 2-1 lead.

Pinch hitter Jim Campanis homered in the eighth for a 2-2 tie, getting starter Don Drysdale off the hook. In the 11th, Mike Shannon led off with a double, advanced to third on a pair of walks and scored when Wes Parker threw wide to home plate on Bressoud's pop fly.

Brown Is Going Top Speed Now

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Aaron Brown, former Minnesota line-man getting a shot at fullback, was back running at full speed Wednesday as the Kansas City Chiefs prepared for Saturday night's American Football League exhibition game with the New York Jets at Birmingham, Ala.

"He is well, completely well," Chiefs Coach Hank Stram said of Brown, a 6-foot-5, 265-pounder. "We'll see a lot of him from here on in."

In his rookie season with the Chiefs last year, Brown played defensive end and tackle.

The Chiefs released four players Wednesday and rookie Jan Stenerud continued his outstanding kicking.

Dropped from the club were Bill Pickens, a defensive end from Georgia Southern; fullback Lenwood Simmons of Edward Waters; fullback Charlie Noggle of North Carolina State and linebacker Roy Davis of Prairie View, Tex.

Stenerud was booting the ball more than 80 yards in the air as he practiced kickoffs. The ball was clearing the goal posts by 25 feet.

"You don't coach him," Stram said of Stenerud, a soccer-style kicker from Montana State. "We have never had anyone like him. So we watch for mistakes."

"It seems to boil down to how he places his left foot," Stram said. Stenerud kicks with his right foot.

"We know — our charts show it — that he is not so accurate from the right hashmark as the center of the field or the left hashmark," Stram said. "But we're working on that. It's psychological."

American Team Has Slight Edge

MONTREAL (AP) — The Americas track and field squad moves in to tonight's second leg of the Expo 67 Europe vs. Americas track and field meet with a five-point edge, but Coach Dutch Warmerdam of the Americas' team figures his athletes will have a tough time maintaining the edge.

Warmerdam said after Wednesday night's competition he was "quite pleased" with the over-all performance of his team, but he had started to worry when his relay team dropped the decision by disqualification to four flying Frenchmen.

The all-U.S. side in the 400-meter event were knocked out by an infraction committed in the second leg of the relay race.

The Americas wound up with 79 points to 74 for the Europeans, taking seven first in the men's events and one of the women's.

Management Moves

Pride For Team Sought

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — Joe Schmidt, one of the boys for years, is the ringmaster of Detroit's campaign to "Bring Back the Roar" to the Lions. By installing the veteran linebacker as head coach the management hopes to restore some of the oldtime pride and spirit to the once-mighty Lions.

Schmidt is faced with the formidable task of being the boss of the men he formerly played with. The morale in camp seems to be higher than it has been in years.

One of Schmidt's problems is to pick a quarterback. Some time between now and that Sept. 17 opening game at Green Bay, he must choose between Milt Plum, the veteran who was knocked out of action in mid-season last year with a knee injury that required surgery, and Karl Sweetan, the kid from the semipro who had an impressive rookie year.

It is too early to pick No. 1 but both have been throwing well in workouts.

The chance of juicing up the Lions' offense depend on the showing of two highly touted rookies, Mel Farr of UCLA and Nick Eddy of Notre Dame, both of whom have just rejoined the club after the College All-Star Game.

When the two high-priced draftees (about $400,000 between them) are fitted into the attack it is possible that Farr might run fullback and Eddy halfback in the same backfield. The holdovers are Tom Nowatzke at fullback and Ames Marsh at half with Tom Watkins, coming back after knee surgery, behind Marsh.

Any visitor to the Lions' camp at Cranbrook School has to be impressed by the flock of fine receivers.

Gail Cogdill appears to be making all the moves again at split end, Pat Studstill at flanker and Ron Kramer at tight end are proven performers. Bill Malinchak is ready to move up if anybody falters and Jim Gibbons is back after undergoing knee surgery.

As in many pro camps, there is concern about the offensive line, a commodity in which there is a great shortage. The retirement of J.D. Smith and Daryl Sanders (who may change his mind) left big gaps at tackle.

Charlie Bradshaw, acquired from New Orleans after he changed his mind about retiring, will play one side and probably Roger Shoals on the other.

Ed Flanagan at center and John Gordy at right guard are set but Chuck Walton, a Canadian League All-Star, may be the other guard. Both Bob Kowalkowski and Doug Van Horn lost time while serving hitches of military duty.

Darris McCord, Alex Karras, Roger Brown and Larry Hand will be the same front four.

Wally Hilgenberg, Ernie Clark, Mike Lucci and Wayne Walker are the veteran linebackers. Ron Goovert of Michigan State, picked up as a free agent, has looked good. Much is expected of Paul Naumoff, Tennessee's All-America, once he gets into the groove after missing valuable time at the All-Star camp.

Lem Barney, a fleet defender from Jackson, Miss., State is going to force his way into the deep secondary where Bobby Thompson, Dick LeBeau, Bruce Maher and Wayne Rasmussen held forth last year.

Shooters See Trade In Lead

The lead of the weekly Wednesday night Trap Shooting League at the Sedalia Rod and Gun Club took a switch from the previous week, but Mills Quik Chek, of La Monte was able to withstand the firing and continued in a tie for the top spot. The Farmer's and Merchants Bank of Green Ridge, however, dropped to seventh place from last week's tie with Quik Chek, and S & M Athletics took their place moving up from a second tie with Norman's Plasters.

Le Roy's Steak House which was in third position behind the two ties of a week ago, fired away to grab an undisputed second place.

S and M Athletics finished the evening with 1183 to be in a tie with Mills Quik Chek. Le Roy's 1180 a one point edge over Norman Plastering Co., which team had a 1179. TRAVELER'S CLEARING HOUSE By Stevie Bonsavage

By STEVIE BONSAVAGE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR STEVIE: Isn't there more to the considerable price difference in first class and tourist air fare than the food and beverages served and more seating space?—K. N.

Heavens, yes, you forgot the great divide—seat location. First-class seats are in choice areas where visibility is best and air motion less noticeable. Also, elegance is a way of life to some, and first-class flying is that.

DEAR STEVIE: I can't resist collecting maps and descriptive literature which take up suitcase room and add weight. So before I leave on a trip, I write my name and address on large envelopes and store them in the bottom of my suitcase. When enough material is collected to fill an envelope, I mail it home to myself. —MILLY

DEAR READERS: Some of the travel booklets that come my way are so interesting and helpful that I'm eager to pass on the word. Here's a sample:

"Helpful Hints for Traveling with Baby" (free). Covers everything from packing baby's clothing to first aid en route.

"Guide to National Parks and Monuments for Handicapped Tourists." This marvelous free booklet lists the facilities and obstacles for wheelchair travelers at our parks and monuments.

"Hosteling Brochure" (free). It lists 39 bargain trips which groups of young swingers can take in this country and abroad.

"Farm and Ranch Vacation Guide." This one describes some 300 spots for vacationing down on the farm; even lists the pigs and cows on each farm.

If you'd like one of these, let me know.

Polly's Pointers®

Teach Children Early
The Art of 'Thank You'

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—After I have ironed a while with my steam iron, the ironing board cover is soaked. No matter what kind of cover I use, the same thing happens. I would certainly appreciate a solution to this soggy problem.—MRS. S. J.

DEAR POLLY—I slip a thimble over my finger when pushing thumb tacks into place. This not only protects the fingers but makes the job easier.

The next time one of your children has a birthday, slip a gaily wrapped package of small "thank you" note paper among the other presents to teach him early in life how important it is to write letters of appreciation.

I place paper towels between my nonstick pots and pans to keep them from being scratched by stacking.—DOT

DEAR POLLY—I would like to share a Pointer that we use. I found a picture of a fire truck in a magazine and cut it out without any printing around it, just a bit of blank space. On this blank area I wrote the telephone number of our fire department and then pasted it all on the cover of a telephone book. A child who cannot read or even an excited adult can find it quickly.—MRS. G. S.

DEAR POLLY—To keep the car neat and to avoid that cluttered look while traveling have a place for everything and put everything in its place. To do this make a neat space saver out of denim or corduroy in a color to complement the interior of the car. It should be wide enough to cover the entire width of the front and back of each seat and long enough to tuck in between the seat and seat back so it will stay in place. On the back put pockets of the same material with elastic in the top of each pocket. On either end of the covers put four straps of the same material to hold it in place. This will hold maps, books, games and so on and is easily laundered and kept clean to use for one trip after another.—MRS. H. S.

DEAR POLLY—To keep my shoes from having an unpleasant odor, I sprinkle a little dry baking soda inside, let it stay in overnight and then shake out the soda before wearing the shoes.—C. M.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite home-making idea, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of this newspaper.

Dropped Avengers Point for Second Season

PATRICK MACNEE and Diana Rigg, stars of The Avengers, will be gone from the television scene this fall but may be back in January.

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Keep those letters and post cards coming, folks, and it may be that The Avengers won't disappear after all.

Seems Mr. Steed, nee Patrick Macnee, and Mrs. Peel, nee Diana Rigg, came to New York to be presenters at the Emmy Awards (she was also a nominee), and in the course of a conversation, it was revealed that the series, set to be dropped by ABC-TV, is still in production and is being held in reserve for a "Second Season" return next January.

"All these things, however, are in the laps of the gods," the urbane Macnee said.

He's a seven-year veteran of the series, while the lissome, lovely Diana has been playing Mrs. Peel for three years.

Macnee likes to recall the first three months of the series, when they were done live. "Things always went wrong. We would have a transmitter on the wall, urgently trying to reach Moscow and the whole thing would come off in your hand. But we had to continue trying to reach Moscow, even though the transmitter was obviously not connected to anything. Then we went to tape, with a lot of the fight and action scenes done as inserts. Then we finally went to film, which sort of illustrates the English attitude, which is not too up-to-date."

When the attractive couple was introduced at the Emmy Awards, they received a nice ovation. "We were touched," Macnee said. "We didn't know we were so popular here. We walked past Johnny Carson's table, and he shook our hands and said, 'It's a lovely show.' That's a lovely feeling!"

"Yet when we walked into that room," Diana said, "if we could have retreated onto that plane back to London, I think we would have done so. It was a bit overpowering."

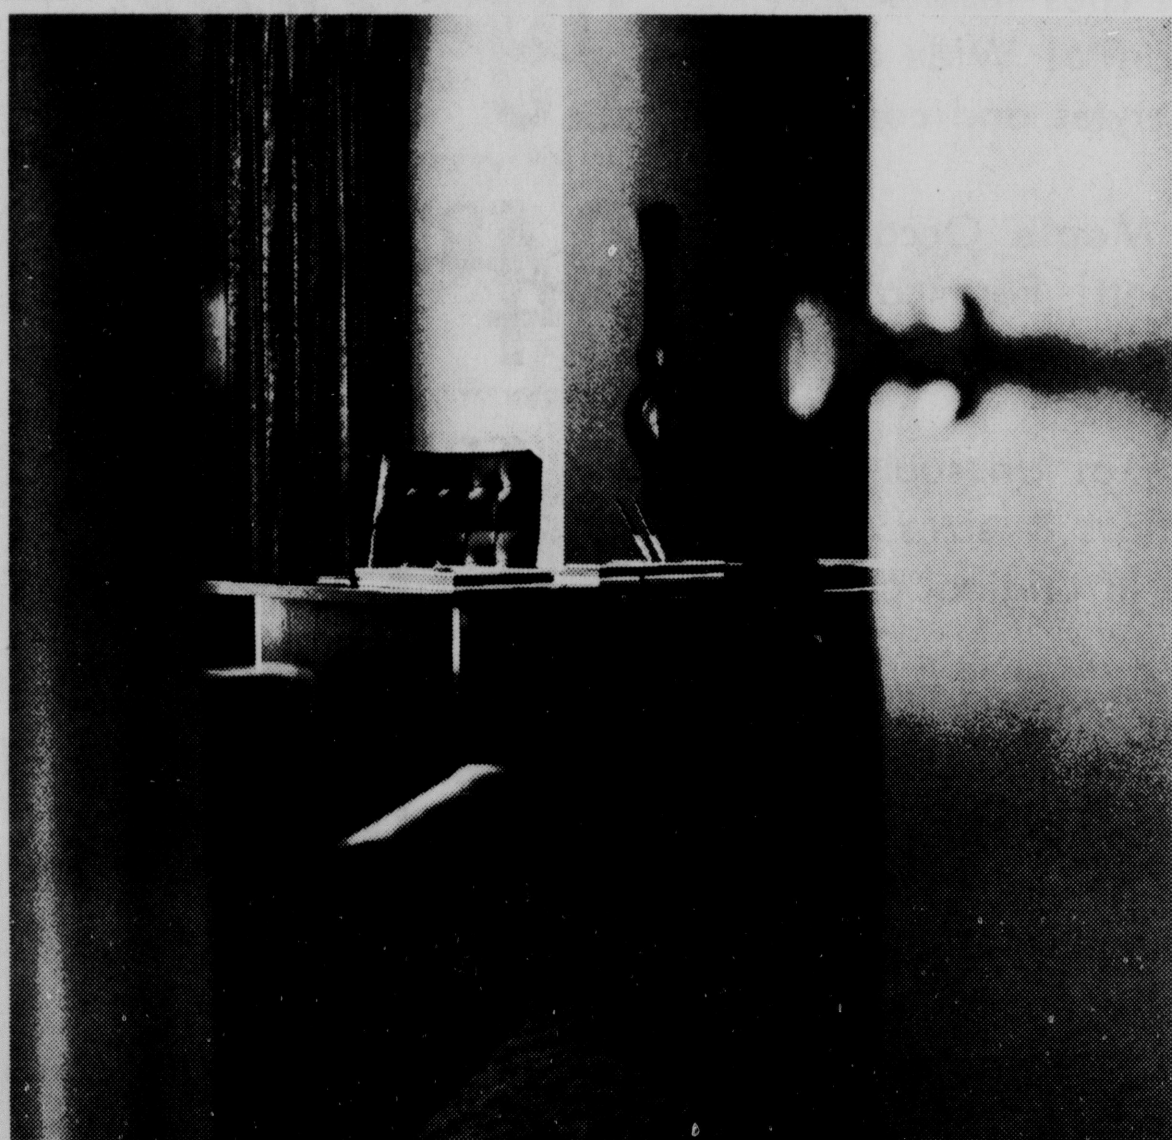

Macnee has a theory that there is very little difference between London and New York ("except it's nice to walk in the sunshine here"), because actors are known on both sides of the Atlantic, and the very nature of the business makes it an international one.

It turns out public acceptance of a show in London can be just as slow as here, too. Remember how it took time for the public to realize The Man From U.N.C.L.E. was kidding? And how it became popular as soon as the realization set in? The same thing happened in London to The Avengers.

"At first they thought we were dead serious, so it took time for the public to like us," Macnee said. "The show is now like a very old friend. We know its faults but we would never insult it by mentioning them in public. It has reached its present form by growing. There really was no conception to begin with."

Macnee, who spent many years acting in the United States and Canada, has reached the pinnacle of his popularity with the series. Young Diana Rigg, formerly a stage star and a member of the Royal Shakespeare Company, will undoubtedly rise to a high peak of stardom. She has looks, intelligence and ability. The Avengers was her first television work, and her only acting experience off the stage. Now she is on the verge of making films, having only to choose which of several offers she wants.

Mark Waters was a chain smoker. Wonder who'll get his office?

Too bad about Mark. Kept hearing the same thing everyone does about lung cancer. But, like so many people, he kept right on smoking cigarettes. Must have thought, "been smoking all my life... what good'll it do to stop now?" Fact is, once you've stopped smoking, no matter how long you've smoked, the body begins to reverse the damage done by cigarettes, provided cancer or emphysema have not developed. Next time you reach for a cigarette, think of Mark. Then think of your office—and your home.
